ATHENS, ONT., OCT. 27, 1891

LOCAL SUMMARY.

ATHENS AND NEIGHBORING LOCALITIES BRIEFLY WRITTEN UP.

Events as Seen by Our Knight of the Pencil.—Local Announcements Boiled Right Down.

The Rideau Record has been enlarged to six pages.

Snow fell here for the first time this season on Thursday last.

The W. C. T. U. meets at Mrs. Sharman's on Wednesday afternoon, 28th.

If you need anything in furs it will pay you to call at G. W. Beach's and look through his stock.

Invitations are out for a social gathering at Cedar Park Hotel on Wednesday evening. An excellent committee have the affair in charge.

You can buy a one hundred piece colored dinner set for $7.50 at the China Hall, Brockville, T. W. Dennis, opposite Central Hotel, Main St. 28-tf

This is the weather in which you feel the need of a warm mantle. Do not forget that G. W. Beach has a remarkably fine stock of mantle cloths.

Edward Duffield will offer for sale by auction on Wednesday, Nov. 4th, at 1 p.m. on his farm situate one mile east of Charleston his valuable farm stock, implements, vehicles, etc. D. Dowsley, auctioneer.

G. W. Beach has the agency for Ferd Rouillon's Josephine Kid Gloves and D. & A. Corsets, the best goods to-day in Canada, try them.

Work on the foundation of the building for the manufacture of steam heat stuff near the station is being pushed forward rapidly this week under the experienced and competent supervision of Mr. Nash.

Mrs. Chester Haskins died suddenly at her home in Phillipsville on Thursday last. Her husband was awakened by her heavy breathing and arose and lighted a lamp. On returning to her bedside he found her dead.

Saturday next, Oct. 31st, will be Hallowe'en. This is a date that the small boy never loses track of, so this paragraph is not written for his information but as a warning to prudent citizens that they may chain up all things portable.

A very interesting collection of Indian relics was found near Frankville, in the township of Kitley, a few days ago, by Mr. John Hanna. The relics consist of arrow heads, a bone tomahawk, Indian shoes made of bone, etc.

You cannot afford to let the cows shrink their mess because the pasture gives out, any more than you can afford to go without fire in winter because the fuel is exhausted. There is no profit in the one and no comfort in the other.

Special offer—at Ross' photo gallery Central Block, Athens, from now until Dec. 1st 1891, one fine gilt frame and picture given away with every dozen cabinet photos. Now is the time to get your picture taken and secure a present, all work guaranteed.

The local Horse Committee have held frequent sittings of late. A number seem to think that the best horse didn't "get there" at the race last week, and that if it had been otherwise it would have been different. The correctness of this view is to be tested on the ice next winter.

To avoid confusion and error, Unionville station on the B. & W. will in future be known as Forthton. This name is unquestionably a good one, and no difficulty in remembering it will be experienced by those who have ever had occasion to stop with mine host, John.

From the model school comes to us the criticism of a fellow teacher in training written by a young lady for her own individual information and delectation. It reads "Slightly rattled—hair curled tight through terror." It was not intended for publication and we give it merely as a guarantee of good faith.

Stevens Bros., Athens, are this week advertising their extensive stock of furniture, and offer a discount of 10 per cent. They have made such arrangements as enable them to offer a free vault to those who patronize their undertaking department. No extra charge is made for driving their elegant hearse a long distance.

Ebenezer Rockwood, who was injured by falling or jumping from a gravel train on the B. & W., as detailed in last week's Reporter, died at his residence here on Wednesday evening last. He never rallied and was seemingly unconscious from the time he was found lying on the track. The funeral took place on Thursday last to the Methodist church. Deceased was a hard-working, industrious man, and leaves a wife and family to mourn his untimely demise. He was born in the township of South Crosby where he resided until about 21 years ago, since which time he has lived in Athens and vicinity. He was in his 58th year.

Ed. Moles spent a few days with his mother this week. He was on the grippe list.

Read the announcement of Mr. Joseph Thompson, grocer, which will appear in next week's issue of the Reporter.

Messrs. D. Fisher and B. Holmes left for Ottawa to-day to attend the convention of the Sabbath school workers now in session in that city.

Orders received at Ross' photo gallery Athens, for sheet music, music books and everything in the musical line. Liberal terms to music teachers.

Messrs. O. Niblock and F. F. Bristow are working on a batch of thirty-two cutters in process of completion at Fisher's carriage works. The new style, as revised and corrected by Crafton, is neat and nobby looking.

Violins, accordeons, concertinas, guitars, banjo's, mouth organs, Jew's harps, flutes, fifes and violin, guitar and banjo strings, violin bridges and bows kept in stock at Ross' photo gallery, Central Block, Athens.

DRESSMAKING.—Miss R. Morris, a first-class, experienced Dressmaker, is now occupying the premises in the store of Phil. Wiltse, formerly occupied by Miss Madden, and will be pleased to execute in the latest style all orders from the ladies of Athens.

Mrs. Annie Derbyshire, who for many years resided in Athens and was well known and respected by a large number of our readers, died at the residence of Warren Slack, Plum Hollow, on Sunday last, in her 90th year. The funeral took place to the Friends' meeting house here on Monday.

Editors as a rule are kind-hearted and liberal. An exchange tells of a subscriber who died and left ten years subscriptions unpaid. The editor appeared at the grave as the lid was being screwed on for the last time, and put in a linen duster, a thermometer, a palm leaf fan and a receipt for making ice.

Rev. Wm. McGill died at his home in Cornwall on Friday last. In 1865 deceased was stationed on this circuit of the Wesleyan Church and was very popular with all classes, his liberality and the sweetness of his disposition gaining him friends everywhere. For some time he had been in poor health and he was superannuated about a year ago.

Consult your own interests by giving me a call if you want to purchase a piano, organ or sewing machine. I am sole agent for this district for Canada's high class piano, the Mason & Risch, also the Mason & Risch vocalion, the great modern musical achievement, suitable for parlors, halls and churches, and the renowned D. W. Karn & Co. organs. Satisfaction guaranteed with regard to quality and price. I have a number of second hand instruments for sale cheap on very easy terms.—Jas. Ross, Photo Gallery, Athens.

Captain Leslie, of Kingston, Ont., manager of the Collins Bay wrecking company, who raised the transfer steamer Armstrong at Brockville last year, by means of steel pontoons, which had the water driven out of them by air pressure, is now engaged in lifting a vessel sunk in 100 feet of water in Lake Superior. He has a telephone arranged to work from the deck of the tender to the diver on the bottom, and the results are very satisfactory. The details of the scheme were worked out by Kingston's local telephone manager.

A recent report gives the following as the numerical strength of Methodists throughout the world: Europe: Ministers 4,481, members 915,284, adherents 4,209,601. Asia: Ministers 533, members 34,334, adherents 114,968. Africa: Ministers 294, members 71,147, adherents 283,376. Australasia and Polynesia: Ministers 786, members 93,140, adherents, 488,183. America: Ministers 36,801, members, 5,380,494, adherents 20,281,976. Totals: Ministers 42,695, members, 6,494,399, adherents, 26,378,104.

The following resolution was passed at a meeting of the South Leeds Agricultural Society Board held on the 10th inst. It speaks for itself:—"Moved by Omer Brown, seconded by A. D. Delong, that in consideration of the long and faithful services rendered, and the deep interest taken in the welfare of the South Leeds Agricultural Society by O. D. Cowan, we the board of Directors do hereby constitute him an honorary life member of the Society, and that the secretary be authorized to forward a copy of the resolution to Mr. O. D. Cowan."

A Phillipsville correspondent says of the recent visit of Rev's Betts and Grenfell to that village:—The Rev. L. A. Betts, of Athens, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church in the absence of Pastor Moil, on Sunday last. Although carrying nearly the number of years allotted to man, he delivered a most powerful discourse, showing that he has lost none of his old time vigor and enthusiasm, in obeying the command to "Go preach the Gospel to every creature."—The Rev. Mr. Grenfell, of Athens, preached the annual missionary sermon in the Methodist church here on Sunday last from Mark 10, 15. The rev. gentleman's discourse was a masterly effort and was listened to with rapt attention. We assure Mr. Grenfell that he would receive a warm reception, should duty ever call him among us again.

Good Advice.

An exchange says: Have nothing to do with lotteries. Once in a while you may hear of somebody in your neighborhood who has won a pot of money by a lottery ticket, and immediately you send away your hard-earned dollar for one of these worthless pieces of paper, because, you say, your chances are as good as his. I will grant this; but then your chance of losing is just as good as the many thousands who are never doing anything else. There is certainly more probability of your going on to the end of your life losing dollars than winning any, because the law of chance says so; if, therefore, you have a dollar, the possession of which is causing you any uneasiness, pay up your subscription to this paper, if you owe one, or become a subscriber, if you are not one, and you will derive much more benefit.

At the Reporter office there is a large quantity of brown and printed paper, suitable for carpets or wrapping. Do you want any?

DEER HUNTING.

Departure of Ye Editor on His Annual Trip to the Woods.

"Ye editor of ye Reporter" is gone—gone to the wild, wild woods to hunt the antlered deer and bounding doe—and our hearth-stone is desolate. The dust of full five days hath settled where he dwelt, and yet the fountains of our grief are not dry, and we mourn as when at the supreme moment of parting our pent up feelings and our lachrymal moodgates gave way and in the poignancy of grief at the thought that he went but to return, we wept. For days and weeks and months we knew that he intended going, but up to the last moment we feared that something would occur to prevent him from carrying out his intention. Indeed, several things did occur, but they were all successfully overcome. Perhaps the saddest of these was the realization that it would be impossible to take with him a much loved bark canoe. Conviction on this point was slow in forcing itself upon his mind, but at length it got there, and on the eve of his departure in the stillness of night, his pathway illumined by the moon's pale rays, he stole softly down to the rear of the garden wall and there said to it a lingering farewell. For many weeks he had labored, early and late, to perfect this relic of ages past, and to be obliged to leave it behind was a very sore trial indeed. But such is the cruel irony of fate. All day Wednesday ye editor flew around wearing the biggest kind of a hustle, but as train time drew near it was found necessary to press additional hands into the service of packing that marvel of heterogeneousness ycleped a hunter's trunk. It contained rubber boots and dough-nuts, apple pie and and boiled shirt, cheese and socks, pork, blankets, bread, nails, dried apples, wire, sugar, etc. It was full to the brim, and as the whistle of the train sounded in the distance we all jumped on it, roped it down, and finally shipped it after writing on the cover, "Pie side up with care." As we surrendered up our loved one at the station to the care and special ministrations of Conductor Flagg, he looked soulfully and significantly into our eyes and said "you'll hear from me." Alas! too well we know what he meant. He intends writing an account of his trip for the paper. Of course, we will do the best we can with it when it arrives, but the fact is our stock of credulity has run pretty low. In endeavoring to place perfect faith and confidence in the numerous Wiltse lake duck-shooting stories that have been in circulation this fall our believer has been worn pretty thin in places. But, as we said before, when the deer-hunting story arrives we'll believe all we can of it.

Yes, ye editor has gone. With a flitch of bacon, frying-pan and 50 lbs. of flour in one hand—with a gun, pair of boots, ammunition and an overcoat in the other—wearing old clothes and a sweet smile—he faded from our view on Wednesday evening. At Sharbot Lake he was to meet Henry Lee and Wm. Neilson of Lyn, and W. Stagg of Brockville. At Levant station they leave the train and drive to the hunting grounds a few miles distant. This week the party is to be joined by Phil Halladay of Elgin and David Dowsley of Frankville.

A Wife's Liability for Debt.

Men who have extravagant wives will be glad to learn, says an exchange, that there is some ground for the judicial opinion that wives can run up as many and as big bills as they please without any danger that husbands can be compelled to pay them. Judge Muir intimated as much in the course of a case that was before him for trial in Hamilton the other morning. It was an action brought by Campbell & Pentecost against Samuel Rogers for $25, the amount of a dry goods bill incurred by Mrs. Rogers. It seems that some years ago Ambrose, who represented Campbell & Pentecost, asked to have the case enlarged so that he might be allowed to cite law. Rogers published a notice to the effect that he would not be responsible for debts incurred by his wife, and he refused to say the bill for that reason. Judge Muir was inclined to the opinion that even such a publication was unnecessary—that according to recent decisions in the English courts, if a husband notifies his wife that he will not be liable for her debts he cannot be made liable, even though such notification is confidential and unknown to any third party. Mr. Ambrose, who represented Campbell & Pentecost, asked to have the case enlarged so that he might be allowed to cite law and precedent to the contrary, and his request was granted.
