A disastrous collision! Prices knocked to pieces by dynamite! Values of Ready-Made Clothing pulverized by a cyclone! Gents' Furnishings at conflagration rates.

I am determined to reduce my stock of Overcoats if prices will do it and it's the low prices that I am holding out as an inducement to the public. I have too many goods, no room for them.

It snows and it blows and the cold stormy weather will no doubt set every intending purchaser seriously thinking of how and where he can buy his winter clothing and buy them of good quality as well as cheap. I wonder what J. J. PHILLIPS has for you at the present time. Here it is first-class goods, best of make, just as good a fit as any tailor-make guaranteed, at prices lower than the lowest, and last, but not least, courteous treatment and always a good fair deal to every one just as advertised.

Mr. R. I. Stevens, D. D. G. M., of Delta, will attend the regular meeting of the local lodge of Oddfellows on Wednesday evening and install the officers for the current term. A full attendance of members is requested and visiting brethren will be cordially welcomed.

A. James is prepared to do all kinds Carriage repairing and painting in first class style and at lowest possible prices.

An old smoker declares that he has been using "Myrtle Navy" tobacco ever since the second year of its manufacture and that during that time he has never suffered from a blistered tongue or parched tonsils or any of the unpleasant effects which most tobaccos will leave behind them His experience, he says, is that no other tobacco which he has ever tried is quite its equal and that in value for the money "no other comes anywhere near it."

Buy your ready-made overcoats at H. H. Arnold's and save at least 20 per cent. Every coat marked at actual cost.

Kenneth, the six year old son of Thos. Berney, met with a very serious accident on Wednesday morning last. He was riding on a sleigh loaded with seven barrels of coal oil and when opposite the post office made an attempt to drop off the side of the sleigh. The team was on a slow trot at the time and as he let go his hold he dropped partially under the sleigh and the runner of the hind "bob" run over his right leg. He was picked up and carried first into the post office and then to his father's house and Dr. Harte summoned, who found that both bones of the leg below the knee were broken and the flesh of his leg badly torn. This morning he is reported as doing as well as could be expected.

Yesterday we received the most [illegible] catalogue of seeds, bulbs, [illegible] ever sent out in America, from the well known Canadian firm of The Steele Bros. Co., Toronto. The immense business success of this enterprising house is wonderful. They [illegible] in the high grade of seeds they supply—coupled with business [illegible]. For '92 they offer Campbell's Gold wheat, a great [illegible], Early Rothhead, [illegible] varieties, three new potatoes, and the wonderful Priestker onion, beside an entire array of novelties in flowers, Stanley's Wash Tub, Spider Lilies, Air Plant, Sword Fern, etc. They make a special offer to mail two Chinese Sacred Lilies (to plant in water only), value 40c., and their grand new catalogue, with 477 illustrations, value 20c., all for only 25c. Farmers, gardeners and amateurs should all send for them at once.

Quite a number of new buildings are to be erected in Athens early next spring.

The snow-fall on Sunday of last week has been supplemented by several flurries and there is now splendid sleighing.

A miner, while prospecting on Mr. John Perry's farm, Barrie township, Frontenac county, discovered an opening among some rocks, choked with debris and tangled berry bushes. He cleared it away, entered and was in a cave of considerable but at present unknown extent. Two hundred feet from the entrance a sheet of water was encountered, and further progress was barred. The miner secured silver stalactites, which he has since beaten into rings. The ore in sight is valuable. Further investigation will follow. It has been an old tradition that this cave existed and that Indians made ornaments from the ore found in it.

Dedication at Portland.

The Methodist congregation of Portland have erected a beautiful gem of a church, believed to be the neatest, most commodious and comfortable, and best finished and furnished of any church of its size in the county. The basement room is a great convenience. The furnace put in by W. H. Pearson, of Elgin, works like a charm. The seats, the platform, and altar furnishings, from the Globe Furniture Co., Walkerville, Ont., so tasteful, appropriate and comfortable, gives satisfaction to all. The audience room was opened for public service on New Year's day, the Rev'd H. Cairns, of Brockville, chairman of the district, preaching the first, and a very appropriate and effective sermon, in the afternoon. The ladies supplied a very fine dinner at 5 p.m., after which George Taylor, M. P., was called to the chair. Able addresses were given by Rev'ds J. H. Steward of Newboro; J. Grenfell, of Athens; and H. Cairns. Two fine recitations were ably rendered by Miss Ewing, of Newboro; and the efficient choir, together with Miss Y. Brown, regaled th[illegible] with delicious music an[illegible] cost about $45[illegible] and unpaid cove[illegible] than half the amoun[illegible] fore a debt to be pro[illegible] least $2,000. The we[illegible] very favorable, the roads not [illegible] people did not come from a distan[illegible] the overflowing crowd was not there—no wonder the building committee, and the Ladies Aid felt discouraged; but the people rose to the occasion. At the call of the chair, members of committee &c. responded nobly, and others rallied to their aid, and before the meeting closed, more than half the debt was covered. On Sunday, Jan. 3rd, the Rev. G. G. Huxtable, of Smith's Falls, preached two very able discourses, the Rev. W. F. Perley, of Delta, ably filling the pulpit in the afternoon. At morning service, the church was duly dedicated. After evening sermon Mr. A. Gallagher proposed to be one of six to contribute an additional hundred dollars, and so wipe out, or provide for the debt. Messrs. Harrison, Sheldon and W. H. Gallagher responded; other amounts were promised and the $2000 was declared to be covered, to the astonishment and delight of all. And with the holy sacrament, the doxology, and the benediction, the inspiring dedicatory services came to an end.

Presentation at Glen Buell.

The people of Glen Buell have long been noted for the kind regard and friendship which they cherish for those who come amongst them. About two years ago Mr. John F. Yates removed from Lyn to Glen Buell, and it having come to the knowledge of a large number of his friends and acquaintance that he had decided to remove to Athens they gathered at his residence on New Year's evening, bringing well filled baskets of the substantial and dainty delicacies of their larders, and taking Mr. Yates and family by surprise they proceeded to "run the house" for a short time. The tables were spread and the contents of the baskets laid out to which all did ample justice and after the tables were cleared Mr. C. J. Gilroy on behalf of the friends and neighbors assembled presented Mr. Yates and family with the annexed address. Mr. Yates was equal to the occasion and responded in a few well chosen words, conveying the thanks of himself and family to those present for their kind expressions of regard and regret at their removal. The Sunday school choir favored those present with a few choice selections of vocal music and after prayer was offered, all joined in singing "God be with you till we meet again." Mr. Yates has been an earnest worker in the church and Sunday school and his removal will be regretted by a host of friends and acquaintances.

MR. JOHN YATES.

RESPECTED SIR.—A number of friends with whom you have associated in church, Sabbath school, Band and educational work, during the two years you have been a citizen among us, are by divine providence permitted to meet you in your home and exchange friendly greetings.

We regret very much that you have found it necessary to sever the pleasant and, to us, profitable associations which we have enjoyed. You have been untiring in your efforts to impart to the useful knowledge, to instill into our minds, principles of vital importance, to each of us. You have been kind and patient, thus proving yourself a worthy leader and teacher.

Believe us, sir, we wish you and your beloved family every success that is possible to enjoy in your new home; to which you will soon remove. We humbly pray that the divine hand of God may continue to lead you in paths of usefulness, that those with whom you may form new ties of friendship, may learn to love and respect you as we have. We also wish you a happy and pleasant year of usefulness in the Master's service.

"When we asunder part,
It gives us inward pain,
But we shall still be joined in heart
And hope to meet again."

Signed on behalf of friends.

UNIONVILLE.

Words of Praise for "Central Canada's Great Fair by a Lover of Progressive Agriculture.

It was brilliant Autumn time,
The most brilliant time of all,
When the gorgeous woods are gleaming,
Ere the leaves begin to fall.
It was brilliant autumn time,
When the apple leaves the bough,
And the sound of fruit is red,
And the birds are singing where they fed;
When the maple boughs are crimson
And the hickory shines like gold,
And the noons are sultry hot
And the nights are frosty cold;
When the sky is blue as steel
And the river clear as glass,
When the mist is on the hill,
And the frost-work on the grass;
When the harvests all are housed
And the farmer's work is done,
And the stubbles are deserted
For the fox-hound and the gun.

Yes, it was brilliant autumn time when the fair rolled past. And as we pass these snow-covered grounds and listen to the wild wintry winds roaring in the distant elms, in the moon's sullen light, gentle thoughts are whisked away like phantoms and there is little left to remind us of the animated scenes that enlivened them awhile ago.

Where now are the gay, happy-hearted thousands who promenaded three days on these grounds? Where the blooming girls,—the aspiring artists who etched and sketched and painted art and heart treasures, their poet dream? Where now are those fair ladies who "stitched and stitched," embroidered and crocheted those exquisitely beautiful, fanciful, fine displays? Where now are the veteran farmers who ploughed and sowed and reaped and mowed and toiled to show to show the grain that princes of old might revere? And the men who grew the wondrous vegetables and the great birds? Where the men that groomed and fed and fed and groomed, many a time till weary midnight, all those splendid animals? All, all in their pleasant, comfortable, heaven-given homes, thinking, planning, devising, working already to make a greater, a richer, a fuller, a grander exhibit, each succeeding autumn. No matter how great their facilities, the thoughtless and indolent begin too late and so get left.

Unionville fair last autumn was a social and financial success. What made it so? It is but reverence due, above all to first say because a kind and bountiful Providence with an open hand scattered prosperity over all our great, our grand, progressive land. Next, the officers were the men wanted, and their choice of assistants from among the members honored their good judgment. Their attention [illegible] the [illegible] Sheldon [illegible] ceive the money [illegible] he did all right.

Mr. N. C. Brown [illegible] had charge of the big [illegible] admission of the people. He discovered that he was in a difficult, trying position, and it was not long before that gentleman at times looked as if he was "sorry he had 'listed." He was aware of the danger of making unfavorable impressions, which might multiply and last for years. He is noted for his good nature, wit, humor, and courtesy, by the aid of which he gave good satisfaction, made a fine point for the society, displaying tact, ability and common sense in a difficult place. Few indeed could have filled this place so well.

Mr. John Barry, the president, proved to be the right man in the right place. For many years a faithful and devoted member, he had long made a careful study of the details and interests of the society. He had been associated with and we might say under the instructions of as fine presidents, gentlemen of as much ability, as ever graced the management of any county agricultural society in Ontario. And the result of his care and attention and experience was what we had good reason to anticipate. More is needless.

It has long seemed to me that the secretary and treasurer of county agricultural societies should be, like the clerks and treasures of county councils and for the same reason, ought to be life appointments. In a few years they accumulate a great experience and their advice and services are alike in both cases valuable to the newly elected officers. If you want to get a matter through the county council, the old clerk's advice is worth that of a dozen new members. No comment of mine is called for to enhance the merits of Unionville's secretary and treasurer.

Mr. John Forth, that veteran and respected member, well merits all the praise he is ever likely to get. He provides a good shady bush where teams to any number may be made secure and comfortable, near the big gate, without pay, while the very men who growl at certain trifles (natural born growlers) would, if it were their own case, willingly collect a slight fee on the same. He provides a good meal on the grounds for those who wish to remain through the day, and furnishes the entire grounds free. The yards and stabling are sufficient for all who wish attention given their horses. Place a like gathering on the margin of any town in Ontario, and if the days are hot, as they mostly are fair time at Unionville, and the people can get their horses in a cool bush shade, many will take them there if there were twenty hotels in town. Mr. Forth constantly furnishes a great number of tables with abundance of wholesome food, cooked in the most approved style. A hotel-keeper on a good meal at 25c. makes no more than he ought to. Mr. Forth might extract a great deal of money in a variety of ways. He simply won't do it. He truly verifies the statement in the community that he is an honorable man and has won lasting esteem by the course he has taken. The fact is, Mr. Grumbler, the place is strictly rural and you can't get your rys-tural-lural.

Man never is—but always to be—blest,
Woman never is—but always to be—dress'd.
—Pope's essay on Woman.

Besides the extensive display in all departments, the costly, fine dress of both ladies and gentlemen was noticeable, and by a reflex action added to the pleasure. Some ladies were richly, some beautifully dressed; a few were faultlessly dressed. A lady hearing this asked in a tone way with the accent of irony and inflection, "Who are they?"—a question closer than I cared to answer under the circumstances. But we may say a lady is faultlessly dressed who blends hue, tint and shade in imperceptible union, forming a harmony of the whole that baffles delineation. There is another faultlessly dressed lady; her robe is woven from the beams of purity, gentleness, sympathy, and kindness, irrespective of cost. Silks and satins may rustle, we see them not. We turn again and again to look after her—that fascinating robe defies description—her dress is lost to memory in the sunshine she radiates.

But the little boys and girls, to my mind, formed a class of their own. I questioned them on different exhibits, and they gave me more amusement than all the rest. The children form very close and attentive observers. The little boys and girls rapidly feasting their eyes on this and on that will soon constitute the society in all its membership, from which the officers and board of directors must be chosen and by whom the future displays will be furnished. Take your little boys, follow them over the grounds, explain to them how that horse, that cow, that sheep, was made so valuable. If you don't know yourself, it is time you did. Explain to them how the golden grains were made so big and bright. Tell your boys how those monster vegetables were produced, from the man in the distant seed store to McNish with his renowned cultivator; that it takes as many men to make a big turnip as it does a pin. Give your boys a few such lessons; he will be worth ten dollars more a year, soon a hundred more to himself. That boy will become a leading and useful man in his neighborhood. I saw little girls with a sigh of emotion looking at works of art (one with tears in her eyes)—there was strong desire and resolution combined. Some day these little girls will be heard from. They will yet display art beside which your own will look inferior.

Little boys and girls, you have a right to go to the fair. Insist upon going, and may be the directors will issue family tickets and then you can all go. If they don't, just tell them that in a few years they will again be children themselves and then it will be your turn.

And now, Mr. Editor, when the autumn time shall come again with its mighty trains laden with a wealth of golden grain and fruits for the people, and when again the gates shall open to receive them, we hope the people will be as delighted and the sun shine as auspiciously as in 1891.

W. S. HOUGH.

[illegible] secures and fines. [illegible] member about notifying the department about the seizing and return of Howard's net. Had a lot of correspondence about the Howard case, gave as a reason for not reporting Howard's case, that he considered he had permission to fish. Never gave permission or sold permits to any one except Leggo, in which case he forwarded money to department and got a receipt, thought from the circular of Oct. 16 that he had authority to grant permits for netting.
