Cupid finds friends in The Dog Rescuers Inc.

by Nathan Howes
Oakville Beaver Staff

"He's a sweet little puppy who's missing his front legs."

Those are words from Joan Znidarec, president and co-founder of Oakville's The Dog Rescuers Inc., to describe Cupid, believed to be a Great Pyrenees-cross, about seven weeks old, who was found tied in a bag behind a building in Toronto last weekend.

On Jan. 29, he was brought to The Dog Rescuers Inc. for immediate veterinary care and has been there since.

The Dog Rescuers Inc. is a volunteer-run group that works with more than 20 provincial shelters, pounds and humane societies, and the general public, to re-home abused and neglected dogs.

News of Cupid's rescue has been circulated in media across Toronto, with one outlet filming a segment with him and Znidarec earlier this week.

She spoke to the Oakville Beaver Tuesday (Jan. 31) afternoon about his current condition.
