

River Oaks hosts new school information evening

The North River Oaks community will be hosting a New School Information Session on Sunday.

The meeting, starting at 3 p.m., will be held at the proposed new school site at the corner of River Glen Boulevard and Harman Gate.

Mayor Ann Mulvale, MPPs Gary Carr and Ted Chudleigh, and school board administrators and trustees have been invited to explain their positions on this issue.

For more information, call Cathy Collins, 257-8787 or Pat Gushue, 257-0711.

High seas adventure fundraiser

Nineteen-year old Shauntha Boyd is holding a fundraising reception on Saturday featuring the work of local artist Susan Menzies to raise money for a high school adventure on the high seas.

Boyd, who has sailed recreationally and competitively for 10 years, is enrolled in Class Afloat, a travel-work-study program which takes high school students around the world on a 188-foot Brigantine sailing vessel.

The program costs $20,000 (US) for one semester. Boyd has raised almost two-thirds on her own and with the help of local sponsors. To help raise the balance of her tuition, Boyd is holding the fundraiser at 5 p.m. at the Oakville Yacht Squadron, 1 Forsythe Street. Refreshments will be served and Menzies will be on hand to autograph her work.

Boyd sets sail this August on a one-semester voyage that will take her to Honolulu, Australia, Indonesia, Madagascar and South Africa. She recently completed her OAC studies at St. Ignatius of Loyola Secondary School and will take university preparation courses on board.

Boyd will also work towards completing her seamanship papers at the end of the journey, completing the first step in a three-step process to becoming the captain of a ship.

For more information about Boyd's fundraising reception, call her 847-2586.
