Marital dispute ends with weapon charges

A Fourth Line man has been charged with several offences in connection with the assault of a woman late Tuesday.

Just before noon a man hit a woman in the face then paced around a Fourth Line house with a loaded .22 calibre rifle.

According to police the couple had been experiencing marital problems. After the incident the woman ran away and took a relative's child with her.

Officers with the Tactical and Rescue Unit responded to the house and the man was arrested.

A 27 year old Fourth Line man has been charged with assault, threatening death, careless storage of a firearm and possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace.

Medical team volunteered services dent of Mercy International Canada. "Providing the money was the least we could do. Without this procedure, Marco had no hope."

The condition in Marco's blood vessel - known as a congenital malformation - had caused it to dilate much like an aneurism. Although a genetic condition, the problem became more acute for Marco recently when the vessel's growth began encroaching on his brain, stunting his development and causing seizures.

The procedure performed by doctors in Philadelphia effectively closed the vessel to stop the swelling.

Unequipped to treat Marco and overwhelmed by war casualties, doctors in Bosnia-Herzegovina turned early this fall to a doctor from Pennsylvania - Dr. Chris Chapman - who was delivering relief supplies to the region. After discovering that only one hospital in Europe was equipped, but currently unable to perform the operation, Chapman turned to The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia for assistance. The hospital agreed to help and a team of Pennsylvania doctors including a neurosurgeon, a neuroradiologist, and a cardiologist volunteered their services.

To cover the costs of the operation, Chapman turned to Mercy International Canada, a group which has been providing humanitarian assistance to the former Yugoslavia.

Doctors said today that Marco, who was flown to Philadelphia with his parents last week, should fully recover and return home by early November.

Mercy International Canada is the North American arm of Swiss-based Mercy International - a non-profit, global alliance of concerned people who are committed to fostering the well-being and dignity of people around the world.

Since 1992, Mercy has provided $25-million in food, clothing, shelter, and medical assistance to victims of the war in the former Yugoslavia.

Your support and encouragement before and after the election has been appreciated. I am honoured to be your new M.P.-elect and to have led such a fine campaign team.

As said during the campaign, I intend to focus on issues of concern to us all: jobs, deficit reduction, intelligent government economic stimulation, preservation of our health care system and benefits for our seniors, and the fostering of a suitable national government in unstable times.

Together we can make Canada one of the most civilized countries in the world.
