Both shows opened Friday and are on display at the local galleries until Nov. 4.

Downtown Oakville launches magazine

Our Town Downtown Oakville magazine is hot off the press.

Downtown Oakville Business Improvement Area in association with Formula Media Group recently unveiled the launch of the new Our Town Downtown Oakville Magazine.

It's a lifestyle publication covering food, fashion, décor and events of downtown Oakville.

"The magazine has evolved a great deal from when it was first published in 1998 as a black and white newspaper section," said Joseph Diodati, Our Town Downtown chair, social chair and owner of Johnathan Quinn for Men.

"We are sure you will enjoy this new publication and all that downtown Oakville has to offer."

The official magazine launch took place at Fruits and Passion in downtown Oakville at the BIA's quarterly social.

The turnout included the Our Town Downtown Committee, downtown Oakville BIA staff, local business owners and staff and media.

Our Town Downtown Oakville magazine has changed to reflect how downtown Oakville has blossomed and evolved.

It is a guide to what is happening in downtown

Oakville and keeps readers in the know.

The magazine is published three times per year in the fall, winter and spring, and features will change every issue.

The September issue hits the streets now and is distributed through The Oakville Beaver, Mississauga News and The Burlington Post.

Remaining issues are available in all downtown Oakville BIA businesses as well as other venues including local hotels, the Oakville public libraries, Oakville Museum at Erchless Estate, The Oakville Centre for the Performing Arts and many other attractions.

"Thanks to everyone that worked so hard on putting out our first edition of Our Town Downtown," said Meredith Read, Arborlea Residential Design Group and Marketing Chair.

"It looks fantastic and I look forward to seeing the publication evolve."

The Downtown Oakville BIA thanks the Our Town Downtown Committee for its great vision and Formula Media Group.
