TO MY COAT.

ONE OF THE BEST BEAVER'S MOST FAMOUS SONGS.

Though hardly worth one penny's cost,
Thou'lt dear to me my poor old coat,
For full ten years my friend thou'lt been—
For full ten years I've brushed thee clean;
And now, like me, thou art old and wan,
With both the glow of youth is gone;
But, worn, and shabby as thou art,
Thou and the poet shall not part,
Poor coat.

I've not forgotten the birthday eve,
When first I donned the glossy sleeve,
When joyful friends, in merriment wine,
Drank joy and health, to me and mine.
Our indignance let some despise,
We're dear as ever in their eyes;
And for their sakes, old as thou art,
Thou and the poet shall not part,
Poor coat.

One evening, I remember yet,
I, romping, feigned to fly Lisette;
She strove her lover to retain,
And thy frail skirt was rent in twain.
Dear girl, she did her best endeavour,
And patched the up as well as ever,
For her sweet sake, old as thou art,
Thou and the poet shall not part,
Poor coat.

Never, my coat, hast thou been found,
Bending thy shoulders to the ground,
From any upstart "Lord" or "Grace";
To beg a pension or a place.
Wild forest flowers—no Monarch's dote—
Adorn the modest button hole;
If but for that, old as thou art,
Thou and the poet shall not part,
Poor coat.

Poor though we be, my good old friend,
No gold shall bribe our backs to bend;
Honest amid temptations past;
We will be honest to the last:
For more prize thy virtuous rage,
Than all the lace a Condiar brags;
And while I live and have a heart,
Thou and the poet shall not part,
My coat.

Miscellaneous.

An envious man repines as much at the manner in which his neighbors live as if he maintained them.

'Union is not always strength,' as the sailor said, when he saw the purser mixing his rum with water.

A deserted damsel struck her lover with a poker, exclaiming, with sob, 'You have broken my heart, and I'll break your head, sir.'

It may be true that knowledge is power but knowledge is not virtue.—Rev. J. P. Norris.

A doctor detained in court as a witness complained to the judge that if he was kept from his patients they might recover in his absence!

To marry a rake in the hope of reforming him, and to hire a highwayman in the hope of reclaiming him, are two very dangerous experiments.

Prof. Grimes says if he should see a pica-table or other piece of furniture rising up in his room without hands, or promenade the floor without human agency, he should take a dose of rhubarb, for he should know something was wrong within.

A burglar was once frightened out of his scheme of robbery by the sweet simplicity of a solitary spinster, who, putting her night-capped head out of the window, exclaimed, 'Go away! aren't you ashamed?'

There are 35 breweries in St. Louis which turned out last year, 112,000 barrels of Lager and 74,000 barrels of common beer, the total value of which was 1,366,400 dollars. In addition to this 50,000 barrels were imported from Milwaukee, Belleville, and Pittsburg.

The man who did not think it respectable to bring up his children to work has just heard from his three sons. One of them was a driver on a canal, another had been taken up as a vagrant, and a third had gone to a public institution to learn the shoe business under a keeper.

In the pleasant town of F., in the good State of Tennessee, lived a serious, sober-sided Scotchman, noted for his eccentricities, who by virtue of an election held some few years since, bears the title of Esquire C.—A suit of minor importance was brought before him for trial. When the first witness was brought up he administered the oath thus: 'You solemnly swear that you will speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, as long as you live—a promise that might be made with advantage by the community in general.

SERVANTS IN CRINOLINE.—A respectable butcher of Stafford having lost several halvers, was at a loss to account for the way in which they had been disposed of.
A few days ago, however, his wife happening to go into the servant's bedroom, noticed a dress hanging up, presenting more than the ordinary appearance of fullness about the skirt, and, upon examining it, she found the missing halvers, with the ends cut off, and the rope neatly bound in calico, supplying the place of steel hoops.
—Staffordshire Advertiser.

Judge Dooly was a man of undoubted bravery as well as waggery. Once on a time he had the misfortune to offend Judge white, who wore one cork leg, and challenged Judge Dooly to mortal combat.
The two Judges met on the field at the hour appointed, but Dooly was alone.
White sent to ask where his second was?
'To this Judge Dooly replied, 'He has gone to the woods for a bit of a hollow tree to put one of my legs in, that I may be even.'
The answer was too much for his opponent;
he turned on the only heel he had, and left the field.

The Scottish American Journal

DEVOTED TO THE

Interests of Scotchmen in America,

AND TO THE DISSEMINATION OF

SCOTTISH LITERATURE AND ART.

CONSIDERING the multiplicity of newspapers in America, it has to many been a matter of surprise that the numerous body of Scottish residents should have been so long unrepresented. To supply this desideratum, No. 1, of the SCOTTISH AMERICAN JOURNAL was published on Saturday, August 6, 1857, and is now continued weekly.

The primary object of the JOURNAL is to furnish its readers regularly with the news of their native country. It presents a weekly record of all events of interest occurring in Scotland, and its subscribers are in this way as fully informed of what is transpiring at home as if they were in regular receipt of an old-country newspaper. Scottish questions will be discussed with intelligence and impartiality in the editorial columns, and the sentiments of the leading parties on these subjects will be fairly represented and commented upon.

In the literary and miscellaneous department of the paper, merit and talent will be appreciated from whatever country they emanate, the Scottish element will preponderate. Tales, sketches, and poetry, illustrative of the Scottish character, and of a nature fitted to call forth the sympathies of Scotchmen both at home and abroad, will occupy a conspicuous place. In this department, the co-operation of our distinguished authors, possessing unrivalled facilities for the task, has been secured.

In politics, the JOURNAL will occupy a thoroughly independent position, alike free from party bias and national prejudice. In order to interest its readers wherever situated, it will take a broad view of topics of the day, avoiding those of a merely local nature, except in so far as they may present points of importance to the general public. Questions involving the interests of British residents in the United States and in the British Provinces, will be specially considered, and it is believed that the information and news of the JOURNAL on these important class of subjects will be such as shall command attention.

The SCOTTISH AMERICAN JOURNAL, will in every respect be conducted in an efficient and business-like manner, with every requisite guarantee for its permanence. The proprietors, who are respectable parties, resident in New York and elsewhere, therefore look with confidence for the support of their numerous countrymen in all parts of America, and they will be glad to communicate with respectable parties at a distance who may be disposed to co-operate with them for the establishment of the paper in their respective localities.

A publication established with these objects must of course look for support mainly from the country whose current history it chronicles; but as the basis of this journal necessities, in addition to the treatment of all important questions affecting American interests, and as its literature will be cosmopolitan, it is hoped that even to the general reader its columns will not appear unenterprising or prosed.
