

Portry.

I AM AN ORPHAN BOY.

A poor sad orphan boy am I,
'Mong strangers now I roam; Once I had parents for to love,
And cheerful happy home.

But now, alas! no home have I, No friendly voice I hear,
To cheer my heart or make it glad,
In this cold world so drear.

No marble tablet marks the spot Where my dear parents sleep;
But oft into their grave I go,
Their orphan boy to weep.

Yes, by their grave I weep alone,
For all my joys are fled;
My parents, brothers, sisters all,
Are silent with the dead.

I plant the weeping willow tree,
Its branches thro' to wave,
When I am far, far distant From my dear parents' grave.

Ah! I, the once happy boy, My parents' pride and joy;
But O! the change that's taken place—
I am an orphan boy.

Has left without one earthly guide To guard or to defend;
In him alone I put my trust,
Who is the orphan's friend.

Miscellaneous.

Modesty is the red rose that is won over a white heart.

Speak low, ladies, and yet always endeavor to be high-toned women.

The bachelor has to look out for number one—the married for number two.

Nature has granted to all to be happy, if we did but know how to use her benefits.

Cheating and jockeying at horse-racing are matters of course.

We see it stated that the "census embraces seventeen millions of women." Who wouldn't be the census?

Money and time have both their value.
He who makes a bad use of the one will never make a good use of the other.

True greatness consists in doing what deserves to be written, in writing what deserves to be read, and in making mankind happier and better for your life.

Usefulness is more frequently connected with good sense than we find assurance; and imprudence, on the other hand, is often the effect of downright stupidity.

An avaricious man is like a sandy desert, that sucks in all the rain but yields no fruitful herbs to the inhabitants.

A Thorough Care.—A miller, in giving a testimonial to the proprietor of a powder for destroying vermin, avouches us with the assertion, "I was full of rats a fortnight since, and now I don't think I have one."

A Nasty Relic.—"The skull of Dick Turpin, under a glass shade, many years in the Morley family, of York." That was one of the lots put up to auction at a sale of "genius furniture" the other day, in Church Street, Soho. The piece of bone sold for 14s—glass shade and all.

If those who are the enemies of the innocent amusement had the direction of the world, they would take away the spring and youth; the former from the year, the latter from the human life.

Words are little things, but they strike hard. We wield them so easily that they are apt to forget their hidden power. Fifty spoken, they fall like the sunshine, the dew, and drizzling rain—but when unfeelingly the frost, the hail, and the desolate tempest.

The Noisy Man.—It is the man who makes the most noise that secures little attention of the world. A silent elephant may remain unobserved amid the foliage of the wood, but a croaking bullfrog will be sure to attract attention on the darkest night.

Envy is the most inexcusable of all passions. Every other sin has some pleasure annexed to it, or will admit of some excuse; envy alone wants both. Other sins last but for a while; the appetite may be satisfied; anger remits; but envy never changes.

As we stand by the sea-shore and watch the huge tides come in, we retreat, thinking we will be overwhelmed; soon, however, they flow back. So with the waves of trouble in the world; they threaten us, but a firm resistance makes them break at our feet.

It is a singular fact that the time of the day the great battle of Waterloo commenced has never been definitely settled.
Wellington and Guesneau fix the commencement of the struggle at 10 o'clock, A.M.; Alva and Vanodoucourt at half-past 12; Napoleon and Drouot at 12; and Ney and Heymes at 1 o'clock.

Cruel.—Young swells (say)—"I say, Thompson, do you think I shall ever have any whiskers?" Thompson (after a careful examination)—"Well, sir, I really don't think you ever will—leastways not to speak of it." Young swells—"That's rather hard, for my pap—I mean governor—has plenty?" Thompson (facetiously)—"Yes, sir; but prays you take after your main-man." (Total collapse of young swells).
—Punch.

The Runaway Slaves in Canada.—It is estimated that there are 45,000 fugitive slaves in Canada from the United States.
The negroes are a gregarious race, and they are disposed to live in villages and towns, and cling together. The 1000 fugitive slaves in Toronto wash linen, make shirts, are blacksmiths, bricklayers, carpenters, shoemakers, &c. There are six colored grocers in the town, and one colored physician. One fugitive is worth 100,000 dollars. But the head quarters of the negro race in Canada is Chatham-on-the-Thames. Of its population of six thousand, two thousand are colored.

HAVING guarded against loss from Fire by insuring your property, consider if it would not be as well to make a little additional provision for your family in case of your own premature death—whether it would not be as well, through the assistance of a Life Assurance Company, to provide a legacy for your wife or daughter, or if you have not the happiness of being blessed with them, additional might not be of advantage to yourself a few years hence. If you decide that it would, write to the Managing Director of the PROVIDENT LIFE ASSURANCE form, and a copy of the Rates.

Or, possibly, the Agent of the "Beaver"
