The London Times says:—It is not to be supposed that any houses of influence will be willing to act as agents for the American loan in London, as it would be with every element of danger to subscribers, as well as to the friendly relations of the Union, whether it shall be re-established by a return, either compulsory or voluntary, of the Southern States.

POPULATION OF IRELAND.

From the Scottish American.

Most people, we suppose, who had paid any attention to the occasional returns of the Emigration Commissioners, were prepared to hear that the population of Ireland had very greatly diminished during the last ten years. Twenty years ago the Irish people numbered more than eight millions; now they are little more than five millions and three-quarters. But the decrease of population during the last decade is less by about eight per cent. than it was from 1811 to 1851, and there is every prospect that during the next ten years the Irish people will increase instead of diminishing. Since 1851 nearly a million and a quarter of people have emigrated from Ireland. But though this number is enormous, it is satisfactory to know that it has been growing less yearly, in the main owing to the improved demand for labor in the island. And now, if any record is kept of the emigrants from these shores to the 'old world,' doubtless important additions will be found to be made to the population of Ireland, this year, in the person of returned emigrants. If the numbers we see passing hence across the Atlantic, in the steerage of the screw steamers, be any guide to the numbers returning home in other available ways, it must be very large. And while this war lasts, this re-migration must continue, for wages are low and employment scarce for all kinds of labor, and it cannot be otherwise until peace returns, even if it be otherwise then.

Belfast—Protestant and manufacturing —is the only Irish city the population of which has increased; and it has increased considerably. Galway, for which the pocket service was to do so much, has actually sunk from 17,786 in 1851, to 9,785 in the present year. It is lamentable to see a ratio of decrease little inferior to that of Galway in many other towns and cities. Nevertheless, as the number of inhabited houses is greater in some of these places than it was ten years ago, we must conclude that the departed population was of the miserable and unhappy class who swell the misery and criminality of a place, rather than add to its comfort or its wealth. If these have been removed to new homes where they can shake off evil habits made tenacious by the associations of their surroundings, their absence is a blessing which ought not to be deplored, merely because of the odious comparisons which it leads to in the census tables.

The enumeration of sects in this census is complete and important. We find about four millions and a half of Roman Catholics, while the Episcopalians and Presbyterians together number less than a million and a quarter, the former being numerically equal to all the Protestant bodies. But the Presbyterians almost equal the Episcopalians in numbers, for the other sects are unimportant, and it may be a question soon mooted, if Protestantism is to remain 'established' in Ireland, why Presbyterians should be ignored. A broader, more enlightened and altogether more Christian measure, would be the entire abolition of the Church Establishment in Ireland. That Protestantism can at least hold its own in Ireland is shown by the position of the Presbyterian body. The withdrawal of the Establishment and the leaving of all sects to their own devices would be the ruin of Ireland of probably the last grievance that weighs upon the national conscience; though the last which will dwell on the national tongue may never be reached by a British legislature, even enlightened by the presence of Ireland's own Scullins and Hendessays.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

WRECK OF THE YACHT "WAVE."

THREE YOUNG GENTLEMEN DROWNED!

From the Globe.

It is our melancholy duty to report that on the night of Monday, during the prevalence of the storm, the yacht Wave, which had been on a cruise down the lake with four young gentlemen on board, was completely wrecked off the island, and that three of the four young men were lost. The names of the four young men are Mr. William Gordon, Mr. Pierce E. Morton, and Mr. J. M. Mitchell, all well known in Toronto. Mr. Robert Holmes, of Hamilton, the fourth, was almost miraculously saved by clinging to a plank and swimming ashore. A week ago last Thursday, Mr. W. Gordon, a younger brother of Mr. Gordon and a nephew of Mr. Mackay, of Messrs. Gordon & Mackay, Wellington-street, Mr. J. M. Mitchell, a student in the law office of Messrs. Smith & Wood, and Mr. P. E. Morton, formerly in the naval service of H. E. I. Company, left Toronto harbor for a cruise on the lake in the yacht Wave, a vessel of eight hundred tons. On the second day after their departure they were seen in Hamilton, at which place they were joined by Mr. Robert Holmes. Having got a stock of provisions on board, the yacht's head was turned down the lake, and Rochester,odus, Oswego, Coburn, and Port Hope, were passed, and all on board were in high spirits and well pleased with their cruise. About twelve o'clock on Monday they left Port Hope for Toronto, with a strong breeze blowing from the south-east. At five o'clock in the afternoon they were opposite Scarborough heights, but by this time it was blowing a perfect storm. The yacht was driven to the north, and the place they were in was by Mr. Robert Holmes.
