GETTING YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

WHEN you spend your money you naturally want to get all you can, that is everyone's right. Only those who are commonly referred to as having "more money than sense" throw their money away. All others are careful to see they do not get the worst of any bargain. But one has to be able to look farther than the end of his nose if he is to be sure that he is getting his money's worth. That is the defence of those who buy outside their community, instead of patronizing home merchants. This is old theory, the resident of any community makes, (through intensive buying), the low price possible. Then increased patronage to their merchants gives those same merchants a bigger buying opportunity, thereby maintaining a minimum price for good standard merchandise. The price buyer always thinks he is looking out for No. 1 and he says it is not his fault if the merchant in his community is not making any money and is forced out of business. He overlooks the fact that he is likely to be as hard hit as anyone else when the merchant closes his doors, but it is a 20 to 1 shot that the buyer is the one who loses, and all because he did not believe in his community merchants sufficiently to support them. You never bought anything for nothing in your life. Don't try it now. Think it over.
