Unique Exhibition of Very Clever Handicraft

Large crowds have been attracted to the Goldfields annex afternoons and evenings this week, first by the curiosity aroused by the unusual signs put up and later by the reports of the unusual exhibition of craftsmanship displayed. A gentleman who appears to be rather badly crippled is putting on this exhibition, taking up a collection to defray expenses. The exhibition is a remarkable display of very clever craftsmanship and artistic skill. In show cases are depicted a series of scenes, one for each month of the year, depicting life in Canada thirty years or so ago. Ploughing, sowing, reaping, cattle, barns, houses, conveyances, people, etc., are all cleverly shown. The scenes are all made from pine and accessories and are most skillfully carved and arranged. The exhibitor says that all these wonderful scenes and the very lifelike miniature representations are all his own work. The general opinion of all who have seen the exhibit is that it is a simply wonderful example of patience, skill and artistic sense.
