Some Helpful Hints for the Home Garden Plots

Timmins Horticultural Society Seeking to Interest More
Boys and Girls in the Interesting Work of Raising Flowers and Vegetables. Helps Toward Success in Home Garden Plots.

(Contributed by the Timmins Horticultural Society.)

The Timmins Horticultural Society would like to make it plain to all those who did not read our previous article, that every boy or girl of school age can automatically become a member of the Society's juvenile branch by simply planting a garden plot with flowers or vegetables—or a combination of both—and taking proper care of it. This gives them the right to compete in the Juvenile Garden Plot Competition and to display the products of their own skill and labour at the autumn exhibition of flowers and vegetables.

In our previous article we discussed seed boxes for indoor planting. Before filling boxes it is preferable to sterilize the soil, either by pouring boiling water over it and allowing it to drain, or by baking it in the oven. This should destroy all weed seeds, parasitic fungi, and small worms that might feed on plants or their roots. Parasitic fungi, or mould, is a frequent cause for damping off in both seeds and seedlings.

It is advisable not to fill seed boxes to the top. Leave at least a quarter of an inch space so that when you water your growing plants the water will not overflow. On the other hand do not leave too much space as indoor light is so limited that you cannot afford to have your seedlings shaded at the edges by the sides of the box.

The soil should be firmed and smoothed before seeding. Very small seeds, such as petunia or lobelia, need not be covered. Press them into intimate contact with the soil, but do not forget to water first, before sowing the seed, so that they will not be disturbed. Larger seeds may be covered lightly.

After planting do not water too often. It is better to water copiously once each week than to sprinkle daily. Use water not colder than the temperature of the room. The shock of cold water straight from the tap is likely to retard the growth of seedlings.

In sowing, scatter your seeds evenly, but not too thinly. You will surely lose a few seedlings, and there is strength in union. Delicate seedlings sometimes do not have the strength to break through the soil and have too many plants you can always give some away to others less fortunate.

An effective method of watering without disturbing seedlings is to place them in a receptacle containing more than sufficient water to cover the bottom of the seed box, allowing the soil to soak it up by capillary action. Seeds may be covered with newspaper after sowing to prevent too rapid evaporation. This covering must of course be removed as soon as the seeds have sprouted.

We named several varieties that should be sown early. To those may be added ageratum, matricaria and mimulus. These are plants worthy of a place in the border or garden plot.

Charges He Beat Her; Held Her Three Days

Family Quarrel Dismissed. John Samborski Fined. Was Alleged He Hit Boy With Piece of Wood and Pitched Another Into Snow for Throwing Ice at His Sign.
Many Assault Cases.

Charging that Joseph Landry "beat me up" and kept her imprisoned for three days, Annette Cote testified in police court on Tuesday afternoon. A conviction was registered against Landry on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm, and he was sent to jail for three months at hard labour.

Miss Cote said that she had been living with Landry prior to the assault. The altercation started when her sister had something to say to Landry, and after they all had consumed some wine. When her sister left Landry beat her up. She was black and blue all over, she said.

He then kept her imprisoned in the house for three days. When she tried to telephone out he threw her on the bed.

Landry said that Annette and her sister and himself drank four bottles of wine. Then Annette "went out and came home drunk" and with one black eye. He wanted to send her away. "She is a woman who drinks an awful lot," he told the court.

Judging by Annette's appearance, she picked up a black eye up somewhere in her travels. In any event she came into court with a beautiful "shiner." Her eye was discolored and bloodshot.

"She got an awful beating," said the Magistrate, imposing sentence.

Family Quarrel Dismissed
Albert Pariseau charged Elie Ranger with assault. Pariseau had two black eyes and he alleged that they were part of the contribution Ranger made him. After hearing very involved evidence which indicated that the quarrel was definitely a family affair, Magistrate Atkinson dismissed the charge.

Pariseau said that Ranger called his mother a vile name and when he tried to make him shut up he got hit for his pains. Ranger got him down, said Pariseau, and continued to beat him. When he called from the floor for Ranger to stop because "I'm done," Ranger told him that there was no mercy for him and went right on beating.

"Albert was down in a pool of blood," said Mrs. Pariseau, mother of the complainant.

She maintained that Ranger got her son down on the floor and continued to beat him despite her pleas that he be let up. "He seemed very angry," she said.

Wife of the accused, Mrs. Ranger, said that Pariseau made the first move. He jumped on Ranger but "Elle was too fast for him."

Ranger admitted that he had hit Pariseau a few times. He said that as Ranger started the affair he should have been able to go through with it. They went outside to the yard and had the fight out. "He hit me, too," said Ranger.

Case was dismissed.

Fine of $10
Three youths charged that John Samborski made an unprovoked assault on them as they were walking down the street. Samborski and a defence witness maintained that no blows were struck. Result was a $10 fine for the accused.

Arthur Lariviere said that he and two other boys were going down Fourth Ave. Samborski came behind them. He passed him, said Lariviere, and went ahead to the smallest boy of the trio. He threw him head first into the snow and when they stopped to reason with him, picked up a four-foot piece of wood and swung at them. One of the swings hit him on the arm, said the witness.

Wilfred Landry, another of the trio, said that he never saw Samborski before. He denied that he and his companions had been throwing ice at the sign over Samborski's shoe repair shop.

The third lad of the trio said that he felt Samborski grab him and throw him down. He also denied throwing ice at the sign.

Andro Tromovitch was in the shop. He heard a rattling on the sign and he and Samborski came outside. They saw the boys on the other side of the street. He went along the street and Samborski went back inside the shop. Samborski's evidence was that he turned and went back into the shop and did not lay a hand on any one of the boys. However, a fine and costs

Over Six Hundred at the Purim Ball on Monday

Mrs. Irvin Rosner Chosen as Queen Esther for 1939. Miss Bernadette O'Brien and Miss Evelyn Leeman the Ladies-in-Waiting. Valuable Gifts for Those Chosen.
Event an Outstanding Success.

Mrs. Irvin Rosner, charming brunette wife of Irvin Rosner, local eyesight specialist, will rule this district for the year 1939, as Queen Esther. This honour was bestowed upon Mrs. Rosner at the annual Purim Ball, which was held in the Palais Royale Ballroom on Monday evening.

Over six hundred people attended the annual event on Monday, and Mrs. Rosner was chosen from among three hundred ladies who were present to be the reigning queen. Mr. Barney Sky, master of ceremonies, performed the "coronation" ceremony, presenting "Queen Esther" with a beautiful gold wrist watch, and a jewelled coronet head-piece, as the large crowd loudly applauded the choice of the judges.

Misses Bernadette O'Brien and Evelyn Leeman were chosen as ladies-in-waiting to Mrs. Rosner, and each received lovely prizes. Miss O'Brien was presented with a cut glass tray bearing two glass perfume bottles, and Miss Leeman received a jewelled pendant. Both of these young ladies were very charmingly attired. Miss O'Brien wearing a midnight blue velvet gown, and Miss Leeman choosing a flattering creation of white chiffon.

Judges in the Queen Esther contest were Messrs A. Tomkinson, A. MacDougall, Fred Wolno, Herman Moscoe, and Dr. J. I. Scholes. Their's was a difficult task, many popular and attractive ladies being present at the event.

A "Lambeth Walk" contest was won by Walter Jackinski and Miss Natalie Gregulski, whose exhibition of this popular dance brought cheers and applause from the bystanders. Mr. M. Lukon and Miss Dorothy Chynoweth were winners of the second prize. Judges were Messrs J. V. Lieberman, M. Geller, N. Shankman and Dr. Jessel, and the prizes were: ladies, 1st, a pearl necklace; 2nd, a memory locket; gentlemen's 1st, a tuxedo shirt front; 2nd, a tiepin and accessories.

Solo numbers were sung during the dance by Miss Betty Strauss and Mr. Walter Jackinski, to the accompaniment of Andy Cangiano's orchestra.

Unsigned By-Laws Rushed to Florida

Will be Sent by Air Mail to Receive Signature of Former Town Clerk.

A number of bylaws, not signed by the former town clerk, H. E. Montgomery, will be rushed by air mail to receive the signature necessary to make them law. Town officials informed the council on Monday night at a special meeting that it would be necessary to use some of the bylaws soon so it was deemed wise to send them immediately.

Mr. Murphy, town clerk, told the council on Monday night that he had fourteen bylaws which were not signed.

Yes, said the Mayor, and there were other things not prepared properly. There was an agreement between the town and the Hollinger Mine regarding water. It was supposed to have been signed by the Mayor and clerk when passed. It was only signed by the Clerk. The Mayors' signature was never obtained.

There was a franchise with the Hollinger many years ago. A block of land was to have been deeded over to the Hollinger as shown in an attached sketch. The sketch was supposed to be attached to the plan but it was lost. No one knows what the Hollinger owned in that sections and what the town owned.

Another example cited by the Mayor was of a 25 acre claim near the river, which was owned by the town and upon which the Hollinger had been paying taxes to the town for years.

Because a former construction bylaw had never been advertised, and thus the town had not complied with the Municipal Act, it was necessary last night to repeal the former bylaw and pass another.

"This is due to the failure of a former official," said Councillor Armstrong. "I suggest that some of the penalties attached to the Clerk's failure to attend to these things to be enforced."

"It was a good thing we did not leave these until later," said the Mayor.

Who is Scuffy and Why Did He Leave Toronto Recently?

Here is one by Thomas Richard Henry in The Toronto Telegram:

A Toronto broker was home alone the other night when his phone rang. "Is Scuffy there?" a gruff voice asked. "No," replied the broker.

"Is this Blank 7547?" the voice asked. "No," replied the broker—and the phone clicked in his ear.

Just for mischief he dialed Blank 7547.

"Is Scuffy there?" he asked. "Yah, what do you want him for?" was the reply.

"Tell him to get out of town, the cops are after him," the broker said in a hoarse whisper and hung up the receiver.

Two days later he dialed the number again. "Is Scuffy there?" he asked. "Naw, he ain't here, he's outa town," was the reply.

Now that is all the information we have on this incident and it is all the broker knows.

Anybody who wants to know what it was all about, will have to look up Scuffy.
