Canada's former Disarmament Ambassador to the United Nations is the key-note speaker for the latest municipal affairs seminar scheduled for Thursday, September 19, 1996, from 9:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. at the Paul Martin Centre.

Douglas Roche, Q.C, served as Canada's Disarmament Ambassador from 1984 until 1989, and will speak on Nuclear Weapons and Community Response.

Panelists for the seminar include Marc Kilgour, Director of the Laurier Centre for Military, Strategic and Disarmament Studies; Bill Robinson, Researcher for Project Ploughshares, and Alistair D. Edgar, Assistant Professor, Department of Political Science at WLU.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.
