WLU FACULTY MOVES

OFF-CAMPUS FOR CONFERENCE

Waterloo Lutheran University's 100-member faculty moved into the Beacon Motor Hotel at Jordan Harbor today for a two-day annual faculty conference.

The conference provides an opportunity for the introduction of new faculty members and for symposiums on various aspects of the new teaching year. Dr. William J. Villaume, the university's president, will address faculty members at the opening luncheon.

Speaker at tonight's dinner is Dr. Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., and a well-known Quaker author of 23 books. He has won many awards including the 1960 Churchman of the Year Award in the United States.

A master plan for development of the Waterloo campus will be discussed by architect Karl Kruschen. The 14th unit, a new library, will be opened Sept. 18 and five new residences will be under construction this fall.
