Nine at WLU Honored

With Centennial Medals

Nine men and women associated with Waterloo Lutheran University have received centennial medals from the Government of Canada in recognition of their valuable service to the nation.

Tribute to them was paid by Dr. Henry Endress, acting WLU president, who said presentation of the medals gives the university and Canada an opportunity to pay tribute to the nine members of the university community who have served with distinction over many years.

Receiving the medals were:

Tamara Giesbrecht, vice-president:controller;

Harry D. Greb, president of Greb Industries Ltd., and chairman of the university's board of governors;

Dr. Otto W. Hieck, professor emeritus, Waterloo Lutheran Seminary;

Dr. J. Ray Houser, principal, Waterloo Lutheran Seminary;

Dr. U.S. Leupold, dean of Waterloo Lutheran Seminary;

Dr. Albert W. Lotz, president of the Eastern Canada Synod, Lutheran Church in America, and member of the university's board of governors;

Senator W. Ross Macdonald, chancellor of the university;

Dr. Flora Roy, chairman of the university's department of English; and

Dr. Lloyd H. Schaus, professor and former dean of the university's faculty of arts and science.
