June Library News

JUST A FEW REMINDERS

Sunday opening has ended for the summer and will resume in October.

After a lapse of nearly two years, we're now open again on Friday evening, between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. As we learned when we found it necessary in 1984 to close at 5 o'clock on Fridays, this is a favourite Library time for many people.

Library fines are now a little higher, so be sure to insert a date slip in each of your books and try to get them back on time.

At this time of year we always implement a special vacation loan, an arrangement which allows you to extend the loan period of books which are not in high demand from the regular one month to six weeks. This is intended as a convenience for patrons who will be out of town and therefore unable to return their books at a regular time.

With the promise of hot weather ahead, it's time to warn you of what the heat can do to a vinyl record in its jacket on the back seat of a car. We're unable to accept the return of wobbly records, as a few patrons learn every summer, so do watch out for this
