

Night School Classes Hold Exhibition of Work on Thursday

A school demonstration of much interest will be given next Thursday, April 5th, from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. in the Inglewood school, the occasion being an exhibition of the work of the West Vancouver night school students of the season just closing.

These night school classes have proved quite a boon to the people of this district. Each year they are becoming more popular and better attended, and it is now fully realised that the courses of instruction in most of the subjects are equal to any classes held in more populous centres. The board of school trustees made a wise move in providing these facilities at home instead of making it necessary for students to travel to Vancouver.

This exhibition, which is free to the public, should be visited by all interested in educational matters. Knowing something of this work, we can safely say that it will be an eye-opener to the parents when they realise the ability developed in these students. The exhibition will include all branches of night school work.

Bridge Manager Reports Against Dam

Figures Denied

Contending that Second Narrows bridge is adequate to handle both land and marine traffic for some time to come, Major Percy Ward, manager of Burrard Inlet Tunnel & Bridge Co. has submitted a report to his directors on the proposal of Major W. G. Swan to construct a causeway and locks on the site of the present bridge.

"The objections of the shipping interests and their claims of loss seem to be the factor that has decided Major Swan to put forward his proposition," stated Major Ward in his report. "It is unfortunate that he should have placed himself in the same category as that portion of the public which, without any knowledge of facts, shows a disposition to condemn the Second Narrows bridge merely because it is accused," he continued.

Shipping interests, according to a memorandum submitted to North Shore councils by Major Swan, considered the bridge a menace to navigation. Major Ward contradicts this statement and expresses doubts on the preliminary financial estimates submitted by Major Swan.

Major Swan's estimate for constructing the causeway and locks is $5,500,000.00. According to Major Ward this figure, however, does not include redemption of shares held by the municipalities interested which have a par value of $800,000, but which originally cost well over $1,000,000.

Major Swan in his memorandum, stated daily earnings of the Second Narrows bridge were $490 during 1927. "I do not know the source of that information," Major Ward stated, "the earnings of the bridge for 1927 were $393 daily."

Major Ward concludes his report with a statement that the bridge is proving adequate for present land and marine traffic; is financially successful and when further improvements are required the natural increase in traffic will automatically provide the finances necessary for such work.

The Vancouver City Council has also received a letter from the Burrard Inlet Tunnel & Bridge Co. along similar lines.

HORTICULTURAL LECTURE AND WHIST BIG SUCCESS

The whist drive held under the auspices of the West Vancouver Horticultural Society on Tuesday night at Ambleside Hall, proved a great success. The prize-winners were: Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dickson and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Potter. The consolation prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Allan and Miss Woodcock.

The drawing for a valuable rooster donated by Mr. A. Henderson was won by Mrs. G. Elgar, and Mrs. G. Dennis of North Vancouver was the winner of the drawing for an apple tree.

Previous to the military whist the large crowd present listened with great interest to a lecture of three quarters of an hour's duration on "Gardens" given by Professor Buck of the University of B. C. Mr. Buck dealt specially with the arrangement and work of a small garden.
