The Shopper

A tiller of the soil from Pohick Crossroads trudged into a shoe store with his nine children and said to the clerk, "I want 'em all fitted." The obliging clerk went to the job and as rapidly as he had each one of the bunch fitted, the farmer asked, "Now, what size is that?" The clerk gave him the information, which the farmer wrote on a slip of paper.

When all were fitted, the clerk figured a minute and said, "Now that will be fifty eight dollars."

"Oh," said the farmer, "I don't want to buy their shoes here. I just want to be sure of the sizes. I am going home now to order them from Sears-Roebuck."

Don't laugh at this, for it only parallels a tragedy daily enacted in the printing business by the habitual shopper.

B. C. MOUNTAINEERING CLUB ANNUAL CAMP, GARIBALDI PARK

By H. G. Selwood

The B. C. M. C. annual camp, held on the Black Tusk meadows of Garibaldi Park, August 4 to 18, proved a great success. Two weeks of bright sunshine made daily climbs possible, and enabled three separate parties, totalling 24 men and 5 women, to conquer Mount Garibaldi. Two West Vancouver residents, Mr. R. H. Simmonds and the writer, made the ascent of this 8,700 foot peak which is the highest in the Park, and which offers snow, ice and loose rock hazards sufficient to make the trip a sporting proposition.

Owing to the presence in camp of a number of flower lovers, and the great wealth of material available, several botanical surveys were made. The more rare "alpinists," naturally, were found on the rocky ridges at about 7,000 feet elevation, but the damp meadows, averaging 5000 feet elevation, were rich in the more common mountain plants, such as the lupin, valerian, paint brush, rein orchid, lesser fireweed, mimulus, and the various heathers.

The Park, with its 400 square miles of grandeur, is almost as wild as when the writer first entered it with the "discovery" party, in 1912; as the Park Commission has not yet got down to real business. But we may expect proper development in due course, as the Park is destined to be one of the great tourist resorts of the Pacific Coast, ranking with the Yosemite Valley and Mount Rainier.

A motor road has been surveyed from Daisy Lake Station on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to the Black Tusk meadows; and this route meanwhile furnishes an acceptable trail for horse or foot traffic. But Daisy Lake, itself, is served only by the railway, and roads in that rough country will be very costly; so it looks as though a through road to the meadows from Squamish—or perhaps Vancouver,—will not be immediately forthcoming. Proponents of such a through road may have a long row to hoe.
