GARDENS and GARDENING

By MINA G. HUTT, Landscape Architect

Graduate in Landscaping U. of C., American School of Landscape Architecture and Gardening. Member National Landscape Service. If the pool is a fairly large one and there are plenty of plants in it the fish and other animal life in the pool should not require any other food than that provided by the plants and such flies and bugs which inabit the surface of the water. Mosquitoes breed freely in a lily pool but if there are fish in it they eat the larvae and thus rid the neighborhood of many of these pests. If it is necessary to feed the fish in the pool, due to the smallness of the pool or lack of sufficient plant life, use one of the balanced foods on the market. These foods contain both cereal and meat. The wafer-like food sometimes sold lacks proper nourishment for certain varieties of fish, particularly the larger ones.

The fish tadpoles, newts and ones.

The fish, tadpoles, newts and other animal life in the pool should be transferred to an indoor aquarium for the winter and the pool drained to prevent freezing.

NOTE—The writer will consider it a pleasure to answer questions concerning the gardra in this column.

nual May Day party given by the small students under the dir-ection of Mrs. W. D. Fraser on the beautiful grounds of the school at 18th and Esquimalt.

The children went through a program made up of action songs including the "Sailor" and "Balloon" songs, the "Thistledown"

MAY DAY PARTY AT

After the concrete walks and floor of the pool have set thor-oughly it should be filled with water and let stand for about two weeks and then emptied and two weeks and then emptied and refilled. The reason for this is that there will be a considerable quantity of alkali absorbed from the concrete by the first filling of water. Alkali is very detrimental to fish and other animal life which, no doubt, you will be placing in the pool, along with your water plants.

Gold fish are imported in such your water plants.

Gold fish are imported in such large quantities that they are so inexpensive that they are within the reach of the most moderate purse. The best variety for the ordinary pool are the larger species. They breed readily under almost any condition and require much less care than the fancy ones. In our opinion the larger ones attract more attention also than the small, fancy variety.

A couple of weeks ago we were spending an hour or so in a park where there is quite a large pool stocked with all sorts of gold fish. People were much more interested in the larger fish and paid little attention to the small, fancy ones.

The other day a dispute was overheard in which a boisterous ill-bred fellow called his adver-sary "no gentleman."

"I suppose you think yourself the?" was the reply.
"Certainly, I do," answered

the bully.
"Then," said the other, "I am not offended that you don't think me one."

instead of 40 cents return as formerly.

It is pointed out that new prices will be practically the same in larger quantities of tickets, although cost will be higher in smaller books.

As the by-law must receive approval from the LieutenantGovernor-in-Council it will be approximately a month before the new tariff will be applied.

Only one book of tickets of the present issue may be sold to an individual in a day, the council decided, endeavoring to discourage those who might attempt to hoard tickets.

A letter of appreciation has been sent by the council to F. Buscombe for his very timely and public spirited gift of an in-halator at Caulfeild.
