Included in this group are seven students who were named Ontario Scholars. This distinction is given to those students who receive an overall grade 13 average of 80 per cent or better.

They are: Tom Gallagher (90); Mary Ann Vandermeer (87.5); Henry Hui (87.1); Wilson Ko (84.8); Gary Hoi (81.6); Brian Chau (81.3); and Cor Manders (80.1).

Queen's anniversary scholarship given to DOC graduate

Thomas Ross Gallagher of 252 Lupin Drive, Whitby has been awarded a Queen's Anniversary Scholarship.

The scholarship, valued at $1,050, is awarded by the Queen's University, Kingston. K.L.S. Gunn, the registrar of the university, told Gallagher in a letter that "being named an anniversary scholar places you in a select group of Canadian students and suggests the beginning of a distinguished career."

Gallagher graduated last month from Whitby's Denis O'Connor High School where he was named one of the school's seven Ontario Scholars with an average mark of 90 per cent.

A student qualifies for the honor of Ontario Scholar if he or she graduates from grade 13 with an average of 80 per cent or better.

Zoning bylaw procedures

By COUNCILLOR BARRY L. EVANS
Centre Ward

Whitby Town Council, and more particularly the administrative (planning) committee have come under criticism during these past few months for not being responsive to the concerns of the citizens in planning matters. The main concern appears to be the notification of the public regarding zoning changes.

Zoning changes usually occur in one of two ways. Where the proposed zoning conforms to the Official Plans of the town and the region, a by-law changing the zoning is the only requirement and it is not necessary to notify the public until after the by-law is passed. At that point, the only recourse for the public is to object to the Ontario Municipal Board.

If a zoning change does not comply with the Official Plans, then an amendment to one or both of official plans is required before the zoning by-law can be effected. The official plans of the town and region are in effect 'master plans' for the overall design of the town and region, and state generally what activities are permitted. Zoning by-laws encompass smaller areas and are more specific and limiting as to possible uses of lands affected.

Whenever an official plan must be amended, a public meeting is held before any changes are passed by council.

It is, therefore, only zoning by-laws conforming to official plans which create problems with respect to public input. If council or staff realize a zoning by-law is contentious, then a public meeting may be held. The difficulty arises when council and staff do not realize that there may be great opposition to a zoning by-law. These types of zoning by-laws usually relate to an area no larger than a standard building lot, and come before council so frequently that it would be impractical to call public meetings in each case.

As your council, we try our utmost to respond to your concerns. We are bound to make mistakes from time to time, and undoubtedly you will disagree with our decisions at other times. The important thing to remember is that we are working for you, not against. Your constructive criticisms and concerns are always welcome.

Council needs reading tutors

The newly formed Literacy Council of Durham Region is seeking interested people to be trained as volunteer tutors to help illiterate adults learn to read and write.

The council will be holding a training workshop on the weekend of September 11 to 13.

For more information about the council and the workshop contact council vice-chairman Cheryl Bruce at 579-0622 or 668-2833, weekdays.

Let's run around together.
