'Wellness clinic' is new approach to health care

Dr. Peter Wysotski and Dr. Rudy Enns have opened their new chiropractic clinic at 1631 Dundas St. E. in Whitby.

Called "The Chiropractors, Family Wellness Clinic," it is a new approach to health care that considers the whole person and their environmental lifestyles.

The chiropractic philosophy is based on the release of the body's own healing nerve energy, allowing it to flow freely and to obtain maximum function of the body's mind, organs and limbs. Interference of this energy flow is produced by subluxations (misalignments) of the spinal vertebrae, which can only be corrected by chiropractic vertebrae adjustment. These chiropractic adjustments accompanied by proper nutrition, exercise and positive mental attitudes, are capable of alleviating physical and mental stresses and create maximum health potential for each patient.

Designed for all lifestyles, the clinic treats each member as a unique individual and designs programs in fitness testing, fitness classes, Tai-Chi, Yoga, Lamaze birthing and health care classes, to benefit all ages and all occupations from the factory and business person to the professional athlete.

Five years of careful planning was realized with the Saturday, Feb. 20 opening of the facility—the only one of its kind in Canada, described as a showpiece of the best in natural health care."

Wysotski was born and educated in Oshawa, graduating from the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College, Toronto in 1970. After an associateship, Peter established his own practice in Oshawa. Dr. Wysotski expanded the wellness concept into a large multi-discipline clinic that would encompass a complete range of services allied to chiropractic.

Enns, raised and educated in Niagara-on-the-Lake, graduated from the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College, in 1976. His relationship with Dr. Wysotski began early in his career and developed into a personal friendship as well as a professional association. Dr. Enns' wellness concepts and business philosophies ran parallel with Dr. Wysotski's vision and they formed a partnership which culminated in the excellent clinic which they are officially opening today.
