DeMarco, Pearl Broeckl
Pearl Broeckl DeMarco, wife of Frank DeMarco, passed away on January 27 due to complications following a medical procedure. Born Pearl Elizabeth Broeckl in Chicago on February 8, 1958, she was preceded in death by her parents, Thomas E. Broeckl and Joan Buckingham Broeckl. Her maternal grandfather was the late Donald F. Buckingham, Chicago entrepreneur and yachtsman, and Past Commodore of the Chicago Yacht Club. Pearl, who was known as "Lisa" in her childhood, attended St. Francis Xavier School and Central School in Wilmette, New Trier High School East, and the University of Wisconsin-Stout at Menominee. Pearl was a versatile chef, utilizing her talents for most of her life on the North Shore at many popular establishments, including Foodstuffs in Glencoe, Nancy's Contemporary Foods in Highland Park, The Noodle Café in Wilmette, and Burhops in Wilmette, as well as for many private clients. At the time of her death she was Executive Chef at Potash Brothers Supermarkets in Chicago. She had a lifelong love of dogs and with her husband Frank was active in showing, training and boarding. Her favorite saying about life was, "Anything worth doing is worth over-doing", and she packed more life and love into her 51 years with us than most people living much longer lives. Pearl would not want to be mourned with a tear, but rather remembered with a laugh. In addition to her husband, she is survived by her sister, Joanna Broeckl Miller-de Zwart; half-sisters, Julie Broeckl Siculan and Barbara Broeckl Johnston; her stepmother, Nancy Broeckl; step-grandmother, Jayne Buckingham; and five nieces and nephews. Interment private. Contributions in Pearl's name may be made to The Leukemia and Lymphoma Society.
