Brothers Vie for Mat Title at Northwestern

Two brothers — Ruddy and Al Schuler—husky lads from Chicago, are waging a merry fight for the heavyweight wrestling championship at Northwestern university this fall. The two boys played on the football team last fall and have taken up the grappling game in earnest.

Intense rivalry for physical supremacy instilled as only two brothers about the same age and size can instill it has resulted in a most spirited battle for first honors. They are the two leading candidates for the heavyweight division and are slated to meet each other in the All-University tournament to be held Saturday night, December 18.

Ruddy, the younger of the two has had more experience at the sport but Al is determined that the "kid" brother is not to best him in anything like a wrestling match. Both tip the scales around 190 pounds and despite their size are able to handle themselves skillfully on the mat.

Coach Orin Stuteville, the Purple's new grappling mentor has brought about a decided increase in interest in the sport this season and as a result there are more men out for the various divisions than ever before. Stuteville is an experienced wrestler, having won the light heavyweight championship in the recent Olympic games.

Emil Kaspar will return the first of next week to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kaspar, at 1306 Wilmette avenue. Mr. Kaspar is attending Concordia college in Milwaukee.

HOLD WEEKLY LUNCHEONS

Largely through the efforts of Evanstonians, the Alpha Sigma Lambda fraternity is holding luncheons every Wednesday at Marshall Field's men's grill. Page J. Thibodeaux, Jr., well known in north shore social circles, has been instrumental in making these meetings a success. Charles Terrell, also of Evanston, is president of the Lunch club, and extends a cordial invitation to all Evanston Alphas to join the group.
