Margaret MacLean Becomes Bride of Charles E. Nail

Garden flowers were placed in the rooms of the Kenilworth club where the reception was held at the close of the ceremony.

The bride was in a period gown of ivory satin trimmed in D'Alencon lace, with a court train of satin. Her veil of cream tulle was held to her head with a cap of rosepoint lace that had been her great grandmother's and D'Alencon lace edged her train. Autumn Colors Predominate at Booth-Hagen Wedding

Autumn hues, bright, harmonious, formed the color keynote for the wedding on Saturday, September 8, of Miss Jessie Booth and Frederick Ellis Hagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Hagen of Hubbard Woods. The Rev. Harold C. Case of the Glencoe Methodist church performed the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock in the evening in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Peele Booth of 521 Sixth street, before an altar improvised in front of the large fireplace, which was profusely adorned with oak leaves, white berries, and gladioli, with large pots of fernia on either side. Tapers in wrought-iron Cathedral candelabra at either side of the altar threw their soft light for the reading of the marriage service in the presence of fifty guests. Marie Lu Owig was harpist.

The bride wore a robe de style gown of ivory satin faced with French blue. Her veil of Duchess lace and tulle formed a long train. She carried a bouquet of roses shading from white to golden hue, valley lilies, and three sprays of forget-me-nots.

Simplicity and Dignity Strike Wedding Keynote

Simplicity and dignity struck the keynote of the wedding ceremony at the Glencoe Union church last Saturday evening, when Miss Mary Lewis Lothrop of Glencoe, and Samuel Smith Hill, Jr., of Reading, Pa., were married. The church, an ideal one for weddings, was only decorated at the altar, where palms, ferns, and tall candelabra set off to advantage two large bouquets of white hydrangea and white gladioli. The Rev. James A. Richards of the Winnetka Congregational church read the service.

Miss Lothrop wore a quaint old wedding dress that had been her grandmother's, and which her own mother had worn at her wedding. The generous tulle veil fell over it in simple lines and the whole made a charming picture. A note of elegance was found in the dress of the bridesmaids, who wore green georgette, the skirts of which were elongated into stately trains. They carried bouquets of peach roses and gladioli, tied with peach bows. Mrs. Lewis Andrew Day, as matron of honor, made a beautiful contrast with her peach georgette frock of the same style as the bridesmaids'. Her bouquet matched those of the bridesmaids, while the bride carried gardenias and lilies of the valley. Miss Christine Bauman of Winnetka, Miss Vera McDermid of Glencoe, Miss Esther Everett of Minneapolis, Miss Gwendolyn Mills of Evanston, Miss Margery Steele and Miss Helen Strong, of Hartford, Conn., acted as bridesmaids.

Mr. Hill was attended by Mr. Day as best man; and his ushers were Dr. Chester Carroll of N. Y., James J. Gibson of Wilmette, Prescott Lothrop, II, of Glencoe, Hiester Nuhlenberg of Kansas City, William Sessions of Chicago, Alvin Spats of Reading, Louis Watermulde of Chicago, and Boyd Wilson of New York.

A reception for the immediate families was given at the Indian Hill club. Following the honeymoon, the Hills will make their home in East Orange, N. J.

Katharyn Wilson Bride of Robert Pollock Ely

A wedding effective in its simplicity took place Saturday afternoon, September 8, at St. Luke's church in Evanston, when Miss Katharyn Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Broomall Wilson of 350 Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette, became the bride of Robert Pollock Ely, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Owen Ely of 430 Walnut street, Winnetka. Following the 5 o'clock ceremony, a wedding dinner for the members of the bridal party and the two families was served at the Evanston hotel.

Heavy white satin was used in the making of the period bridal gown with its high collar of Duchess lace and its fan-shape satin train which fell from the waistline. A cluster of orange blossoms held the tulle veil to the bride's head and valley lilies, gardenias, and white sweet peas formed her bouquet.

Mrs. Everett B. Wilson, Jr., the matron of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Helen Wilson, the bride's sister, and Miss Helen Dostol, Miss Helen Heggie, and Miss Estell Vermeren, were dressed in period gowns of taffeta in pastel shades and trimmed in velvet, with velvet hats to match. They all carried arm bouquets of pink roses and larkspur.

Dr. Ely served as his son's best man, and the ushers were Joseph Larsen of Evanston, Morris Grouchy,

Wilson-Humphrys Wedding Charming Event of Last Week

St. Augustine's Episcopal church, with an artistic arrangement of green and white and the light of many candles was the setting for the wedding of Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the Harry Bertram Wilsons of 611 Laurel avenue, and Ernest Smith Humphrys, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Humphrys of LaGrange Thursday evening, September 6. Tall, three-branched candelabra threw their soft light against sprays of oak leaves at each window along the side aisles of the church, leading to the two huge sheaths of Easter lilies standing against a background of palms at the entrance to the chancel. Larger Cathedral candles stood at each side of the altar which was graced with white lilies, green leaves and its five-branched candles.

The bride wore a gown of transparent velvet fashioned with long sleeves, its soft girdle looped at the back with long ends forming a short train. A cap of Carrickmacross lace brought from Ireland and an heirloom in the family fitted closely to the bride's head and from this flared a long veil of tulle, fanshaped and high at the back of the head, with rosepoint lace at its sides and edging the train which was caught with orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was of gardenias, valley lilies, and white sweet peas.

The bridal attendants, Miss Virginia Bixby of Wilmette, as maid of honor, and Mrs. John Newton Garver, Jr., of Buffalo, matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Judson Clark Munger of LaGrange, Miss Elizabeth Date and Miss Janet Seely of Evanston, and Miss Florence Branson of Wilmette, were in frocks of peach and of green satin with hip-line girdles caught in loops at the back with ends touching the floor. Those in peach color dresses carried corsage bouquets of lavender delphinium and pink roses, while those in green carried larkspur and yellow roses. Kiki Florian, clad in white, was the little flower girl.

Francis Humphrys was his brother's best man, while the ushers were the bride's brother, Harry B. Wilson, Eugene Hotchkiss and Charles Hoag of LaGrange, the Rev. Harold Hoag of Racine, and Kenneth Fry of Chicago.

At the close of the ceremony the guests gathered at the Woman's club for the reception. Baskets and vases of garden flowers decorated the club rooms and an orchestra played for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphrys shipped their car to Buffalo and are motoring through the Berkshires, into Canada, then returning for a stay at Lake Placid. They will be away about three weeks, and then will make their home in Evanston.
