OIL BURNER IS GAINING FAVOR

Modern household equipment plays a big part in making the home truly up to date. For example, the oil burner is one of the important improvements in home comforts.

During the early stages of its development, before quantity production was achieved, the cost of purchasing and installing these automatic heaters was necessarily high. Not so today, however, now that they are being manufactured in greater quantities and by simpler methods. One can find a type of oil burner suitable both as to size and cost for every home.

This year The Herald and Examiner will demonstrate in its model homes one of the most successful types of automatic oil burners. This particular burner was selected for demonstration because of its simplicity of operation and its low cost. It has many other features which should appeal to the home owner, not the least of which is the unusual quietness with which it operates.

The editor of this page offers to readers a new booklet, recently prepared by the manufacturer of this oil burner, entitled, "Civilization Moves Forward." It will be sent free of charge to any who write for it.
