Greatest of World War Heroes to Speak Here

Sergt. Alvin C. York, Tennessee mountaineer who for all time is recorded in the archives of the United States War department as "a conscientious objector" and yet has been accorded the Congressional medal for bravery and distinguished service and has been termed by Gen. Pershing and Marshal Foch as the greatest of all heroes of the World war, will speak at New Trier High school on March 8, under the auspices of Wilmette Post 45 of the American Legion.

In his youth, Sergeant York was, to use his own words, "hog wild." He gambled, cussed, smoked, boozed and was mixed up in knife and gun fights along the Kentucky border. Then suddenly, in 1912, he abandoned his wild life. When the United States entered the war, York was working on a farm and doing Sunday school work in his own little valley. The possessor of a fine tenor voice, he was known throughout the mountains as "the Singing Elder."

Came the war. York was not interested. He had tried fighting along the Kentucky border. It was not worthwhile. Called in the draft, York applied for exemption on the basis of moral and religious opposition to war. Three times, to successively higher boards and finally to President Wilson himself, York appealed. All of his pleas were denied and he found himself in the army. It took him months of reading the Bible and argument to convince him that he should go overseas and fight. But finally convinced, over he went and made history. He will tell of this struggle with himself and finally with the Germans in his address March

"THREE WISE FOOLS" SCORES DECIDED HIT

N. T. Faculty Men's Club to Again Present Drama
Tidbit on March 1

Announcement was made this week that the play, "Three Wise Fools," presented by the Faculty Men's club of New Trier High school last Saturday night, will be repeated on Saturday night, March 1.

The first presentation of the play last Saturday by the New Trier faculty members was a tremendous success. H. H. Herron, who was in charge of the ticket sale, reports that every seat in the New Trier auditorium was taken.

Following the play a reception was held for faculty members and their friends in the Girls' club room at the Leslie F. Gates gymnasium. Members of the Girls' club assisted in the serving.

Tickets on Sale

Orders are being taken now for tickets for the next presentation of "Three Wise Fools" on March 1. These orders will be accepted up to February 25, and may be made either by mail or by telephone. Mr. Herron, the ticket manager, may be reached by calling the high school, Winnetka 2400.

No complimentary tickets are to be given to faculty members at the March 1 performance of the play, and choice seats will be reserved immediately for those who mail their checks early to Mr. Herron at the high school.

The Faculty Men's club will benefit from the proceeds of the play.

Mrs. Arthur W. Wakeley, 234 Leicester road, Kenilworth, entertained for a group of her friends last week at luncheon and bridge.
