

At Woman's Club

By R. L. P.

Dr. Alice D. Tuttle was elected second vice-president of the Woman's club of Wilmette, at the annual election of officers on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Others elected were Mrs. Henry E. Cutler, third vice-president; Mrs. E. Earl McDow, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Arthur Dixon, treasurer; Mrs. David J. Davis, chairman of the literature department; Mrs. Fred E. Parry, chairman of the civics department; Mrs. Myron H. West, chairman of the program committee; Mrs. John Campbell, chairman of the social committee; Mrs. C. P. Berg, chairman of the rental and house committee; Mrs. Fred S. Rye for director for a one year term; and Mrs. Henry C. Hall, director for a two-year term.

Mrs. Harvey A. Bush, president of the club, gave her annual report, in which she complimented the members of the club for the work accomplished this year and for the splendid spirit of cooperation manifested. She touched the high spots of the club work, and mentioned the names of chairmen of committees and members who had done special work. She pointed out that during this year the new portion of the club house had been completed, several important purchases were made, that of a grand piano of a famous make, and a picture of the Dunes by Frank Dudley was presented by the board of directors.

Mrs. Bush spoke of the contributions to charity of the club, the class work taken by members, and the gift of the Junior auxiliary. As for herself, Mrs. Bush merely said, "It was a great honor and pleasure to serve you this year." Mrs. Arthur J. Dixon, treasurer, read her report and that of the building committee.

The program was exceptionally outstanding in a year of outstanding programs, Samuel Thaviu, Wilmette violinist, gave a group of violin numbers in a dignified, artistic manner. He is a young man who has found the soul of the violin—that is, he plays with the persuasive, pure singing tone that rightfully belongs to the instrument but which only the minority of violinists possess. His group held a "Romance," a "Lullaby," Kreisler's "La Gitana," his "Frasquita," and a Sarasate "Introduction and Tarantelle." His tone is not big, but it is beautiful and shows great possibilities. He attempted nothing beyond his reach of technique. In all his playing he showed himself to be an artist.

Several monolog sketches were given by Miss Frances Homer, who has made a name for herself on the stage, but who has now turned to the monolog as a better medium of self expression. It seems to have been a particularly happy step, for in this field all of her talent is revealed. She writes the sketches herself, and then presents them in what seems to be a simple, spontaneous manner. Perfectly sure of herself and her material, Miss Homer's sketches are finished and refined. She has a deal of humor and keeps her audience nunctuating her lines with chuckles, or in more serious sketches she brings them to tears. She appeared in several types of characters, that of an Episcopal rector's wife directing the Sunday school; a bored debutante who sums up her life with three words, "Faith, Hope and Charity," and whose faith and hope for a rich husband are finally fulfilled. Miss Homer also brought pathos to a scene laid in a cathedral, the principal character of which was a woman of the streets; there was much humor in the American school teacher who took a professor to the "most prominent disreputable night club in Paris"; and a deep insight into the hearts of the women of one family covering a period of three generations. Miss Homer was most enthusiastically received by the club members.
