

N. T. High Spots

BY L. H. G.

In the absence of a school paper, which is generally missed, we shall try to give a résumé of New Trier life each week for the benefit of students and their parents. In an attempt to let the township know just what New Trier students are striving for and accomplishing, this column will contain condensed reports of the various club activities, the athletics, the problems of the student council, and interesting bits of news; also the school elections and the honors we hope will be bestowed upon many New Trierites. We feel that this column may accomplish a double purpose if students will regard it as an open forum. All those who are interested in a particular subject may write to this column and explain their problems or make constructive criticisms. We are especially anxious to hear from our student philosophers. Next week we hope to have more to say on this subject. Now for some news.

Plan Parties

The three upper classes are organized now and planning their parties and collecting dues. Last year the present senior class elected its officers. They are president, George Ogan; vice-president, Sally Clark; secretary, Virginia Rietheimer; and treasurer, Dorrance Nygaard. At a senior assembly last week these officers proved their ability by attending to all business within ten minutes. Mr. Windoes, senior advisor chairman, came to the rescue for the remaining twenty minutes. At this meeting the class gift and social committees were appointed. The former is in quest of ideas.

The Junior class has violated one of New Trier's traditions by electing for its president a girl. However, Mary Fowler is quite worthy of the honor and responsibility and will perhaps be an inspiration to the suffragettes. With Al Lind, Kay French, and Claude Hamilton also at the head of affairs, we are expecting big things from the juniors.

The sophomores also elected their officers. May we extend our congratulations to president Bob White and his assistant, Joy Stover. Also to secretary Janet McNulty and treasurer Dick Oliver.

Since we cannot leave out the freshmen (there are more of them than ever this year) we shall give them some advice:

New Trier offers a club for almost every interest and activity, and organized teams for everyone in a wonderful variety of sports. These extra-curricular activities constitute school life and are quite as important as classes. Affiliate yourselves with something, and become a definite part of that organization. You may discover a particular aptitude in some line and probably a host of new friends. You will certainly receive as much or more than you put into the organization.

!!! N. B. !!!

The first school dance of the year will be held Saturday night. The Tri-ship club are calling it a Hanger Dance. Maybe they have something in store for us as at the Pound Dance last year. Boys, have you got your dates? It's never too late, you know. And it takes the fair as well as the strong to put over a party. Give the girls a break! We rather think it will be appreciated. You'll have a good time anyway. One always does at a Tri-Ship dance.

Since this is our first appearance, we should like to extend some late congratulations. Mr. Showley, athletic instructor, and the former Miss Marion Dennis, a New Trier graduate, are married. Let's wish them lots of happiness! And also Clarence William Reiley who was married last June. Miss Lillian Fogg returned from her vacation this fall with an engagement ring. Congratulations and best wishes Miss Fogg!

Monday the halls of New Trier were filled with joy and sorrow—unfortunately, an alarming amount of the latter. Some students (?) were so woeful that even the thought of home brought no joy. This grief was caused by an "old American custom": report cards. 'Nuff said.

We'll see you next week and hope to have much good news.

TO HELP YOUR EYES

Because the Eye is one of the most complex, delicate and easily injured mechanisms of the human body... eyeglasses must be made to very exacting, scientific standards—involving as in the Almer Coe Laboratories from 15 to 29 separate operations and no less than seven verifying tests for accuracy.

AS eyesight is not less important than health itself—the purchase of eyeglasses is not a thing to be taken lightly. Glasses may help or injure your eyes according as they are, or are not, made with high technical skill to the exact requirements of your eyes. They must be so adjusted as to hold lenses at exactly the right distance from, and squarely before, the eyes—or they do not function properly and serious eye-strain results.

Even the finest eyeglasses, since frequent handling will bend them slightly, must occasionally be readjusted to keep them true—that they may at all times help, and not injure, eyesight.

Your glasses, then, must not only be scientifically correct in the first place. They must be kept properly adjusted. Almer Coe glasses are kept perfect for Almer Coe patrons by readjustment, whenever needed, without charge.
