Methodist Church

The morning service begins at 11 o'clock and lasts slightly more than an hour. The entire service—music and sermon—is adapted to the season of the year and the mood of the hour.

The pastor's theme for next Sunday will deal with the problem of how to meet a crisis. The text is "They feared as they entered the cloud." The music will be by the regular quartet and organist.

The modified program of the Church school for the summer brings all sessions at the church hour. The announcement stresses three items as follows:

All departments meet at 11 o'clock. Beginners and Primary children will assemble in their rooms.

Juniors will meet with the congregation in the church for the first half hour, retiring from there during the singing of the second hymn.

Intermediates, Seniors and Young People are invited to cooperate in making the morning service even more effective by their attendance.

The Des Plaines Camp meeting begins Sunday, July 5, and lasts over the two following Sundays. There will be services morning, afternoon and evening of each and every day. Bishop Hughes will preach on the evening of July 5. Bishop McConnell will be the speaker two weeks later.

Groups of young people are preparing for the summer camps. Large groups of both boy and girl scouts will soon be leaving. Another older group will be in attendance at the League Institute at Lake Geneva.

A special invitation is extended to visitors during the summer season. The church will be found comfortable on the hottest days.

"COME AND WORSHIP." Here your effort to worship will be quickened by the stimulating spell of a noble sanctuary, kindled by the contagious presence of a goodly company of fellow seekers after God; elevated by the mystic power of music "which lifts us to the verge of the infinite and lets us peep over"; directed by the persuasion of preaching which has the quality of human interest; guided by the spirit found only where prayer is "wont to be made"; and freed from enervating mysticism by a sense of life's commanding challenge to high endeavor.

MEETINGS

Monday at 7:45: Choir rehearsal
Saturday June 27: Sunday school picnic

The second of a summer series of sermons on interesting yet less known portions of Bible history will be given next Sunday morning. The first church building God's people ever had was the Tabernacle, a portable building for use during Israel's journey through the wilderness. It was built according to specifications furnished by the Lord Himself. The people furnished the materials. Two men, Bezaleel and Aholiab were specially called to work on the parts of the building. God called and qualified them. The building of God's spiritual temple is going on today. God calls and equips us for our specific service. He that withholds his time, and gifts, and qualifications from the work is obstructing God's work. You are invited to hear the sermon on the two builders called by the Lord.

The Sunday school picnic postponed from Saturday June 13, will be held on Saturday next, June 27, at the Glenview Forest Preserve. All those who have no means of transportation to the grounds will meet at the church at 1:45 o'clock. People who can place their cars at the disposal of the Sunday school are invited to be at the church at 1:45 to help take the children to the grounds. Games of all kinds for old and young. Refreshments. Take a basket lunch with you and stay for the early evening. Let's all give the youngsters a good time.

On Thursday and Friday evening of this week the Senior Young People are presenting two one act plays in the Sunday school rooms of the church, for which tickets are now being sold. The performances will begin at 8 o'clock. Tickets may be had at the door.

Next Sunday's sermon subject (July 6) will be: The Cities of Refuge.

Women Voters News

"Disarmament and the World Conference of 1932" is the title of a pamphlet just issued by the National League of Women Voters. Mrs. Ralph B. Treadway, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, is a member of the reading committee which passed upon the pamphlet, and feels the publication is of an unusually high order of merit. Written by Beatrice Pitney Lamb, it gives a brief but authoritative picture of the various disarmament conferences previously held, and an analysis of the problems facing the 1932 Conference.

As Mrs. Lamb says, "In the first place, it must reconcile those differences in points of view regarding methods of disarmament which the Preparatory commission was unable to reconcile. Chief among these is the proposal for budgetary limitation of the material of land armaments to which the United States has not agreed. Then there is the question of whether trained reserves should be limited, as Germany insists that they should. Furthermore, Russia has dissented from the entire Draft treaty and has reserved the right to propose her own scheme of disarmament methods at the Conference. In the second place, the Conference must agree on general ratios for land and air armaments, comparable to the ratio agreed upon between the five naval powers at the Washington conference and on the basis of these ratios it must work out definite figures representing the limits which the countries must not exceed. In the third place, the Conference must agree upon limits for the navies of these powers which have not yet accepted any naval limits. In the fourth place, the Conference must consider whether or not some revision of the naval limits already accepted by the chief naval powers is necessary. In the fifth place, the Conference must overcome serious political obstacles. The strained relations between France and Italy, and France and Germany are only samples of the political tension which a disarmament agreement would have to surmount."

No attempt is made in the pamphlet to put forward recommendations or to urge a course of action, but Mrs. Lamb points out the importance of the role which this country will play in the Conference.

"It is believed by many people," she says, "that its success may depend largely upon the attitude of the United States. For example, there arises the question of budgetary limitation. Since other powers to be represented have indicated that they will accept this method of limitation either when used alone or in conjunction with other methods, continued American objection to it would mean that this country would hamper one of the few forms of limitation upon which foreign agreement can be reached. Then, too, the conflict of interests between the European nations along other lines is so great, and it will unquestionably be so difficult for them to fix mutually acceptable limits for their land armaments, that the Conference may end in deadlock unless some power more removed from European politics persuades them to make the necessary mutual concessions by offering to make some significant reduction in return. During the course of any conference, there may arise an occasion in which a number of nations which are jealous of each other may be ready to accept some solution when proposed by a disinterested power although none of them would be willing to propose that solution themselves."
