"I Was a Wedding Gift"

I'll admit I didn't feel so big alongside all that china and silver, but my owner has been adding to me regularly and I feel mighty important now.

"Joe Owns His Farm Now"

Six years in the pocket of Joe's overalls have made me greasy and dog-eared, but Joe would sooner have parted with his job than with me—and now when he steps out of his door, he's the master of all he surveys.
