

Boys Who Can't Go to Camp Can Have Camp Here

North shore boys who cannot go to camp this summer aren't going to miss the thrills of building their own boats, or of camping and water sports.

Announcement has just been made by Charles A. Kinney, director of Adventure Island camp, of a series of clubs for boys of different ages, to provide camping and boating experiences for boys not going to camp.

These clubs are part of the regular Adventure Island organization. They will be under the leadership of mature men who have had at least three years of training in the camp.

Both morning and afternoon activities will be carried on. Part of each day will be spent in swimming, diving, water sports, games on the beach, and sun baths.

Include Craft Work

An hour and a half will be spent in the wood shop making bows and archery tackle, pack carriers for hikes, boats, kites, pirate weapons, and such things as a boy likes to make.

Part of each day there will be games on the playfield and in the woods; with special trips to light-houses, shipyards, coast guard stations, airports, and other places, depending upon the ages and interests of the different groups.

Indian lore and Indian crafts will have an important place. Besides learning some of the songs and dances of the Redmen the boys will be taught some of his crafts; the making of a chief's costume, the tanning of hides, making moccasins, arrow quivers, tom toms, knife sheaths, arm guards and belts.

For boys of 10 years or older the feature of the clubs that promises to be most popular will be the building of Adventure Island "kyacks." Since their development in the island camp, these boats have become well known in several different states.

Will Build Boats

Through the use of a special form designed by the director of the camp, any ambitious boy can build a safe, durable, and inexpensive boat, and one light enough to be hauled on a small cart from his home to the water, it is stated.

Once each week the boys old enough to go will be taken on overnight camping trips, where they will get experience in making camp, cook-

Roby Speedway Receives Triple A Champion Race

The Roby-Chicago Speedway has been granted a license by the Contest board of the American Automobile association to run a 100 mile A. A. A. Point Championship Auto race Sunday afternoon, June 19.

The championship means that the Roby track is recognized along with Indianapolis, Altoona, Syracuse and Detroit. The ten money winners at Indianapolis on May 30 are compelled to enter by the rules of the 3A and this will give the speed fans a chance to see every star of the Indianapolis race over the Roby-Chicago mile track. They will ride the same cars used in the Indianapolis race and will be awarded championship points, and in all probability the Roby race will decide who will be the 1932 national champion.
