

Among the Institutions of Our Day

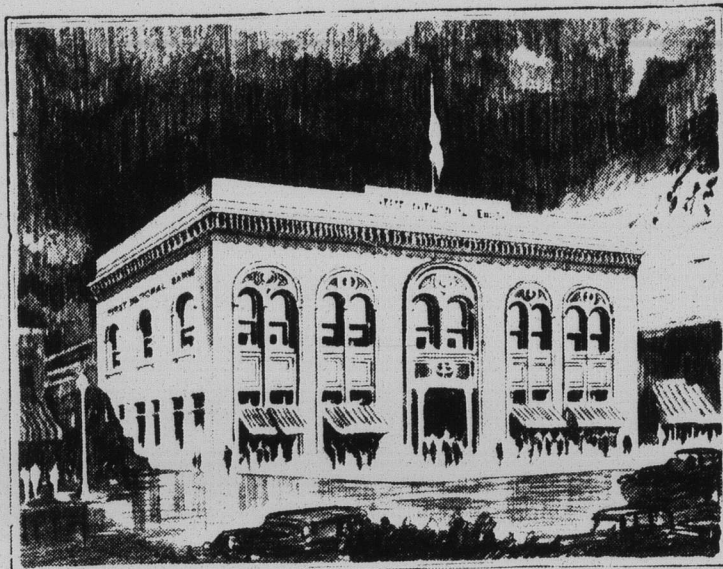

The Bank assumes a position of major importance because of the daily necessity for the services it has to offer. We have passed the period of barter and exchange and hardly a single transaction now a days is consummated without the medium of credit. The Bank supplies this machinery of credit.

Each individual has his own business with a Bank whether he wishes to design a trust, arrange credit for the expedition of commercial affairs, trade in real estate investments, or simply make use of the usual checking, savings, or safe deposit services the Bank has to offer.

It is a good thing to know the full extent to which your Bank can be of service. Its conveniences of location and hours are only of direct value if you make regular use of them. We are always glad to see you and appreciative of any opportunity to place the Bank's facilities entirely at your command. Come in any time and count upon our friendly cooperation, for in your prosperity and welfare we also prosper.

The
FIRST NATIONAL BANK of WILMETTE