

Fort Sheridan to Meet Oak Brooks in Polo August 28

North shore polo fans, whose number is legion and constantly increasing, will have their chance to witness what is heralded as the "battle of the year" Sunday, August 28, when the 6th Corps Area team from Fort Sheridan will meet the Oak Brook quartet at the latter club's new polo stadium, the entrance to which is on York road, just south of 22nd street, Chicago.

It goes without saying that the contingent of rooters from this sector will be enthusiastically behind the 6th Corps Area team, and they will have plenty of opportunities to cheer, for the army team is a hard-riding, spectacular performing combination boasting three of the flashiest stars in the game.

That the 6th Corps Area four will unleash a fine display of individual and team play is assured in advance. Their ace, Maj. C. C. Smith, better known as "Square Smith," is back again after a brief leave of absence during which he helped win a national championship for an army team in the east. Along with Capt. C. A. (Wilky) Wilkinson, also of the 6th Corps Area, he was a member of the all-U. S. Army team which swept opposition before it in the early spring of 1931 during an invasion of the Argentine. Major Smith, equally brilliant on attack, defensive play and as a field general, also played on the Old Aiken team which last summer defeated the Argentine invaders in the international series at Onwentsia club.

Supporting these two stars will be Capt. C. E. (Stubby) Davis, who likewise has entered the polo "hall of fame" within the past two seasons. The fourth member of the team in the starting lineup will be either Capt. H. L. Branson or Lt. G. S. Smith, both of whom are veteran and highly efficient performers.

Oak Brook likewise will present an imposing battle front in Paul Butler, Barney Balding, James A. Hannah and M. L. Stockton, a team that is yet to experience its first defeat of the season. No two teams in this section of the country have built up a more natural rivalry, and no two are hotter after title honors, than the 6th Corps Area and Oak Brook, so that plenty of thrills and some spills are in prospect. The game has been arranged by the Central Polo association, under sanction of the U. S. Polo association. All seats in the stadium are reserved and there is no charge for automobile parking. Tickets are on sale at Chandler's, 630 Davis street, Evanston, and 1507 Otis building, 10 S. La Salle street, Chicago.

Many Residents View Fine Lincoln Display

Large crowds have been attending the open house which the Lincoln Motor company's new north shore retail sales and service branch is holding at 1822 Ridge avenue, Evanston. The open house will continue through Monday, August 29, from 9 o'clock in the morning to the same hour at night each day.

During this period one can inspect at leisure the special showing of V-12 and V-8 cylinder Lincolns, as well as an interesting display of those mechanical features which make possible the precision craftsmanship for which the Lincoln is famous.

Show Inner Mechanism

For instance, there is a cut-away chassis of the V-8 and also of the V-12 Lincoln, with skeleton bodies showing the inner construction of the car. Transmission units showing all working parts, as well as a free wheeling unit, are on display. Another interesting part of the exhibit is a V-12 crank shaft mounted on standards in such a way that the action of an electric fan causes it to rotate.

Viewing the Johannesen gauge exhibit which is a part of the display, is worth anyone's time, whether the person is interested in the purchase of a car or not. With these instruments it is possible to measure as close as one-millionth of an inch.

Can Buy Direct

With the opening of its new north shore branch, residents of this section are now able to buy Lincoln cars directly from the Ford Motor company, of which the Lincoln Motor company is a division.

Daniel R. Ganey, sales manager of the new retail sales and service branch in Evanston, said this week that "we are agreeably surprised at the reception accorded our unusual display. People have been coming in during the day as well as in the evening."

Mr. Ganey, on behalf of the Lincoln Motor company, has extended a cordial invitation to north shore residents to visit the display at any time.

Bill Sherman, son of the Harold R. Shermans, 714 Washington avenue, will be a student at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., this year.
