

SHOW VIEWS OF CARLSBAD CAVE

Sunday Evening Club to Hear
Lecture by Carl B. Livingston, Explorer

"Wonder Caves and Canyons of the Carlsbad Country" will be brought before the eyes of Wilmette Sunday Evening club patrons January 8 when Carl B. Livingston, famous cowboy explorer, scientist and story teller of the Guadalupe presents an illustrated lecture.

Features among the view to be shown will be the famous Carlsbad Cavern in Eddy county, New Mexico, said to be the largest cave in the world.

Startles Eastern School

"The appearance of a mere boy, wearing a ten gallon hat and high heel boots attracted much attention in one of Virginia's preparatory schools" wrote Joseph A. Bursey in a magazine article on Mr. Livingston. The student body was awed but admiring. "The faculty viewed the situation with alarm and immediately passed a ruling that all students should be restrained from carrying deadly weapons on the campus. Young Carl Livingston was searched. Instead of a six gun, they found a light hunting knife with an eight inch blade, which the youngster calmly explained he had brought to sharpen his pencils.

Flips a Coin

"A few years later at the University of Virginia, Livingston was called upon to choose his career. He met the crisis as a true westerner. Drawing a coin from his pocket, he flipped it into the air. "Tails, I'm a lawyer, heads, I'm a doctor." He matriculated in the college of law.

"Livingston went back to New Mexico to become a lawyer and a cattleman. But Livingston spent most of his time roaming around in the Guadalupe, investigating caves, digging up bones of prehistoric animals in the creek bottoms, a thing he'd much rather do than practice law or manage his father's vast cow ranch on which there were 15,000 purebred Herefords.

Joins Archaeologists

"Livingston found that instead of being a millionaire, as he had been before the 1920 crash, he was penniless. He saddled his cow pony, rode into Carlsbad, sold his favorite saddle for $45 and became first assistant to Willis T. Lee, head of a group of archaeologists sent out by the National Geographic Society to explore the hitherto uncharted recesses of the Guadalupe. The expedition arrived just in time to divert Livingston's mind from the shock of losing his fortune.

Discovers Basket-Makers

"Prior to the expedition, Livingston had discovered the Basket-Makers, a race that antedated the Cliff Dwellers by about 2,000 years. Even with a mass of new scientific information at his command, Livingston had difficulty in interesting scientists in the Guadalupe. But once interest was aroused it spread rapidly. Newspapers and magazines here and in Europe gave wide publicity to these prehistoric peoples and to the wonder caves and canyons of this region through Livingston's writings.

Rough Country

"Exploration in the Guadalupe is anything but a tame affair. The country is exceedingly rough and much of it unexplored. The National Geographic penetrated one of the Post No.

The next meeting of Wilmette Post will be on Tuesday evening, January 10, in St. Augustine's Parish House—the second building south of our usual meeting place, and the first building north of the postoffice.

This will be Navy Night, and the speaker of the evening will be Admiral Watt Tyler Cluverius, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval station. Former navy men especially, whether members of Wilmette Post or not, are especially urged to attend. The Admiral is an excellent speaker, and well worth hearing.

Several weeks ago a picture was printed in WILMETTE LIFE, showing Comrade B. F. McNaughton being awarded the Order of the Purple Heart. Harvey Hopp was also shown in the picture, and its caption stated that Comrade Hopp was also a Purple Heart. This was erroneous—while Comrade Hopp has received several other decorations for valor, he is not a member of the Order of the Purple Heart.

We regret to report the passing of Comrade Walter S. Maclean, a charter member of Wilmette Post, Friday, December 30. He died following a prolonged illness and an operation at Hines hospital. He was buried January 2 at Memorial Park cemetery, the services being conducted by Wilmette Post in conjunction with the Evanston unit of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Past Commanders George Leal of Wilmette Post and G. W. Gardiner of the Veterans of Foreign Wars presided.

Vice-Commander D. J. L. Walther is visiting his folks in Oklahoma. Russell Johnson is temporarily carrying on as Vice Commander.

narrow winding canyons until they declared the foot of man could advance no farther. A few months later Livingston and a companion tried to reach the canyon's end. All they were able to do was to advance 100 yards beyond the point previously reached, where they carved their names. Some day he'll reach the end, Livingston says."

Norman MacLeish Will Exhibit Art in City

An exhibition of oil paintings by Norman MacLeish of Glencoe, formerly of Winnetka, is being held under the auspices of the board of directors of Vassar House, 540 N. Michigan avenue, Chicago, from January 4 to January 11, inclusive. The paintings will be exhibited in the grill of Vassar House.

Many of his paintings were made on the coast of Rhode Island, but there are also a number of scenes of the Fox River valley and of the north shore. The Vassar House exhibit is to be the first since he gave up architecture to devote his entire time to painting.

The artist's mother graduated from Vassar in '78, and was one of the first presidents of the Chicago Vassar club. His sister, Miss Ishbel, is of the class of 1920.

N. T.-EVANSTON CAGERS CLASH

Traditional Rivalry of North Shore Schools to Be Revived Friday Night

New Trier and Evanston high schools will renew their old athletic rivalry Friday night of this week in a doubleheader basketball bill at the Leslie F. Gates gymnasium in Winnetka.

At New Trier they are still talking about the 7 to 6 football defeat administered by Evanston this fall, which cost New Trier a tie for the Suburban league championship, and the local boys hope to show their Evanston rivals a thing or two on the basketball court. This will be a difficult task.

Evanston's heavyweights boast a 52 to 19 victory over Schurz, as well as a 40 to 30 win over Roosevelt, the team that lost to Downers Grove in the finals of the University of Chicago's annual Christmas week basketball tournament. Thus far this season the New Trier heavies have won three games and lost four.

New Trier's lightweights have lost four games—to Lane, Hyde Park, Maine and Morton. Evanston's lights have a better record.

Reach Quarter-Finals

New Trier was eliminated from the University of Chicago tournament in the quarter-finals by McKinley, 32 to 27. Jack Sinding, forward, who, in the earlier tournament games, scored eleven points for New Trier against Englewood and ten points against Proviso, was able to account for only five in the McKinley game.

At the end of the half New Trier was leading McKinley, 15 to 12. The north shore boys still held an advantage at the end of the third quarter, but a last quarter spurt won the game for McKinley. Scott, New Trier center, tied with Wendt, McKinley, forward, for scoring honors. Each made eleven points.

One Point Advantage

The New Trier-Proviso game in the second round of the tournament was a "thriller." New Trier won, 26 to 25, after trailing at the half, 12 to 11, and at the end of the third quarter, 17 to 16. Friday night of next week New Trier meets Proviso in a Suburban league doubleheader at Maywood.

In the tournament game between New Trier and Proviso, Mizen, playing forward for the Maywood school, tied with Jack Sinding, New Trier forward, for scoring honors. Each made ten points. Clayton and Williams of New Trier scored six points each, Clayton playing forward and Williams guard.

Englewood High school of Chicago was New Trier's first victim in the University of Chicago tournament. The south side school lost, 22 to 15.
