Catholic Club to See English Gardens

Miss Ethel Mills to Show Colored Pictures on Open Meeting Program Mar. 24

Spring time suggests garden time, and spring, officially, is here though trees and shrubs glazed with ice and whitened with snow early this week belied the new season. Garden time, too, will be at hand Friday afternoon of this week for members of the Woman's Catholic club and their guests when they gather at the Woman's club at 2 o'clock. Miss Esther Mills, extensive traveler abroad, will bring the season of flowers to them with her charming and beautifully illustrated talk on "English Gardens."

Into the highways and byways of England Miss Mills has gone, where, because of wide acquaintance and association, she has been privileged to explore garden nooks not seen by the ordinary traveler. With a keen sense of the artistic and of the unusual, she has focused her camera's eye upon and caught such spots of beauty that linger long in memory.

The results of her journeying are pictures of quiet places, of the King's favorite water garden in the spring, model villages, alluring water gardens, gardens surrounding old Norman churches, age-old gardens edging meandering streams in the region of the Broads, floating shops which sail the streams and canals that are the roads in "The Holland of England"—all of these just a cross section of the garden story in her pictures. Surrounding her colored slides are her entertaining and witty comments.

Mrs. George H. Beaudin, president of the Woman's Catholic club, has declared this springtime meeting with its glimpses into English gardens an open one to which members may invite their friends.

Mrs. H. O. Pinsonnault, Mrs. E. H. Vogt and Mrs. J. Charles McCarthy are to be the hostesses.

Interest in the series, which will be given each Thursday afternoon, already has been aroused in quite a group of north shore women. Anyone desirous of hearing this course of lecture-recitals may call Mrs. Akely.
