"Queen's Husband," Offered Today as Library Benefit

Tonight Wilmette has the opportunity of rubbing elbows with royalty. The Lake Shore Players bring "The Queen's Husband" to the Howard school auditorium for two performances, tonight and tomorrow night, May 11 and 12. These performances are being given for the benefit of the Wilmette Free Public library and the entire proceeds over and above expenses will be used in the purchase of new books. The Library board, through J. R. Harper, has expressed its appreciation of the players' efforts and its desire that this event receive the wholehearted support of Wilmette people in order that the library may be better equipped to meet a growing demand and continue with functions which are now seriously threatened.

"The Queen's Husband," characterized as one of the cleverest satirical comedies produced in recent years, a really modern play and especially adapted to the abilities of an amateur group. Particular care has been used in the selection of the cast in order to obtain a well balanced unit, it is explained.

The leading parts, King Eric VIII and Queen Martha, are played by Lloyd Onion and Peggy Harris. Here is direct evidence of the fact that henpecked husbands are found among royalty as well as among the bourgeoisie. Interesting indeed is a king who prefers the thrilling excitement of a game of checkers to state plots and counterplots, the guarding of state secrets, and other activities of royalty. But perhaps Queen Martha, the tyrannical, overriding palace potentate is in some measure responsible for this preference. Their daughter, the Princess Ann, is a girl of decided spirit who in loyalty to her country is called upon to contract a marriage advantageous to the domain but distasteful to her. Side-stepping this situation calls for all the spirit and courage and determination of which any girl might be possessed.

The stage settings and properties, designed and managed by Edward Ryerson, will lend a rich atmosphere and colorful background for the production.

Tickets for either performance may be obtained from members of the group or from any Wilmette Boy Scout or by phoning Miss Elaine Nelson, Wilmette 4315, as well as at the door.
