

Local Methodists Named to Serve on Homes Commission

Four Wilmette Methodists have been appointed by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church to his recently created Commission on the Christian Home. Mrs. Arthur Long is one of the vice-chairmen of the commission and a member of the committee which will investigate the facts about the home and American home life. Mrs. Ernest Lynn Waldorf is one of the members at large and also a member of the committee which will study the Christian home's relation to schools, individuals and churches. Mrs. Oscar Tolson and Mrs. R. M. Campbell are members of the same committee.

About two hundred Methodist men and women have been appointed to this commission. Most of them are residents of Illinois, but a few Methodists from Iowa, Minnesota and New York have been appointed.

The commission has been sub-divided by Bishop Waldorf into three committees, each of which will conduct intensive research into one phase of the problem. One will investigate the facts as to the status of the home in the United States. A second will make a study of the forces which build the home and those which destroy it. And a third will consider the relations of the home to such institutional forces in American life as the schools, the parent-teacher associations and the church itself. Special attention will be given to methods of inducing modern families to restore the family pew.

Books at Library Help Hostess Cook for Summer Guests

The year 1933 will long be remembered by local housewives not as the year that they had a good time at the World's Fair, but as the year they spent the summer in the kitchen preparing food to entertain all the relatives on both sides of the family to the fifth removal, all the college friends that dropped sending Christmas cards until last year, the friends in all the places one has lived, and the business connections that just happened to be in Chicago. Is it any wonder that anticipation is purple rather than rosy?

The Wilmette public library has had catering to guests in mind for a long time, and has brought together a mouth-watering collection of what to serve and how to serve it. These books are the last word in unusual dishes for all sorts of people; for grandfather on a diet, for robust uncle John, for collegiate young men, and visiting bridge-clubbers who want the newest to take back to the Dakotas.

An Amazing Gem

An amusing gem that starts the brain cells working is Heaton's "The Perfect Hostess." It helps one plan a luncheon for an old flame of one's husband, the stag dinner, the bride's first and second dinner parties, and what to do in emergencies.

Two books that women who love good cookery swear by are "The Boston School Cooking Book," and "The Settlement Cookbook." Two that deserve equally strong commendation are "Everybody's Cookbook" by Mrs. Lord and the cookbook of Mrs. William Vaughn Moody.

A knowledge of unusual and exotic dishes seems to be a post that all traveled and sophisticated people must pass. "You don't know pompano or gumbo or apple strudel or minestrone—WHERE have you been?" But the new regional cookbooks will change all that. One can learn all these things staying at home.
