North Shore Girls Paint Mural at World's Fair

North shore girls have had part in preparing the Bookhouse for Children's booth at A Century of Progress exposition. A mural fifty feet long and eleven feet high has been painted by Miss Mary Martin of Wilmette, Miss Mariel Wilhoite of Winnetka, and Miss Kate Reynolds. It is symbolical, representing in charming style and manner, the influence of organized, well guided and cultural reading and knowledge in the lives of children, contrasting their success with that of children to whom such knowledge and reading is denied. Miss Wilhoite designed the booth itself which is in the Hall of Social Science on the island.
