

Wilmette Garden Club Has Program and Flower Show

BY JEAN TEN BROECK

Friday was a day outstanding for the Wilmette Garden club. It was guest day, with the president of the Garden Club of Illinois, Mrs. O. W. Dynes of Hinsdale, and the publicity chairman, Mrs. Dean C. Workman, as guests of honor. Presidents of neighboring clubs and members of the Evening Garden club of Wilmette were also special guests. It was the day of a travel program given at the time of year when every one goes wandering afar, either in fact or in fancy, and it was the day of the club's annual summer flower show with its members the exhibitors.

The president, Mrs. C. P. Berg, dispensed with all but the briefest of club business, then asked the program chairman, Mrs. Paul B. Wagner of Evanston, to introduce the speaker. He was Donald Robertson of Evanston, world traveler. Full of enthusiasm after his recently completed trip to the West Indies (among which he finds some of the world's most beautiful and unique islands), by means of his own motion pictures, he has his hearers relive his trip with him. This they find easy to do, for he has that flair for picking out distinctive and picturesque characters and spots in his travels that lend color to his tales of his journeys.

At the end of the program Mrs. Dynes and Mrs. Workman were introduced. The former was asked to address the gathering in the small auditorium of the Woman's club, where the meeting was held. Mrs. Dynes, among other remarks, made an announcement that, with all obligations paid, the proceeds from the annual spring flower show on the Navy Pier resulted in a balance of more than $4,000. After concluding, the doors into the adjacent lounge were thrown open, and there, in all their color, were the exhibits of flowers, and flower arrangements. There, too, were the attractive tea table with its large crystal bowl of early summer flowers and gleaming, pale tapers, and the hostesses, Mrs. E. H. Burge, Mrs. Albert N. Page, and Mrs. J. D. Whidden.

Space does not permit description of all of those exhibits winning ribbons, but each of the three classes of exhibits was generously sprinkled with blue, red, yellow and white ribbons.

Flowers were arranged in old-fashioned vases, in miniature containers, in pitchers, vases and bowls. Several breakfast tables were temptingly set; cacti of numerous types and in various containers were there, as were unusual plants and flowers in unusual arrangement. In addition flowers were displayed for perfection of bloom. The season's best was there.

From the club, we have the list of judges, the general committee for the show, and the winners of awards.

Judges were Mrs. Jacob S. Weinberg of Highland Park and Mrs. Charles H. Workman and Mrs. Paul J. Kettner of Glenview. Mrs. Charles E. Wells headed the committee consisting of Mrs. Frank Scheidenhelm, Mrs. Don F. Wiley, and Mrs. Earl J. Smith.
