

IT'S THE CROWNING TOUCH

that creates and expresses, through a PERMANENT WAVE, your personality.

Our skilled operators are never too smitten with any one idea as to recommend it willy-nilly. They study your type before recommending — as a result, our patrons leave satisfied.

All prices change Sept. 1st.

Always a full measure of intelligent service—no skimping of attention

A Complete Beauty Service

Daniel Gans Hair Shop

509 MAIN ST., EVANSTON
Opposite Evanshire Hotel

All Phones 6262
UNI.

THE SPORTS SHOP

976 Linden Avenue
Hubbard Woods

AUTUMN 1933

Town and country clothes of distinction at moderate prices—Afternoon and Evening gowns—hats—accessories.

We cannot tell how long it will be possible to maintain our present very moderate prices.

This year it is more than ever advisable to shop early before increasing costs of production and materials send prices higher.

Modern Magellans Plan World Tour in "Falcon," Fifty-Foot Schooner

A three years' trip around the world in a fifty-foot sloop is in prospect for this group of modern explorers. Left to right: Robert G. Leffingwell, Noel Thomas, Mary Jane Falcon, and Hugh S. Campbell.

To break the shackles of Old Man Depression and to open the gates of scientific and artistic knowledge will be the purpose of the spectacular cruise to be taken by five north shore youths. The crew will include Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Leffingwell, September bride and groom-to-be, of Evanston, Noel Thomas of Chicago, Hugh S. Campbell of 829 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Campbell, who is the former secretary and treasurer of the Elgin National Watch company. The fifth member of the "Falcon" crew will join the other adventurers in Florida during November.

To Visit Many Lands

The cruise, which will cover approximately three years, will include in its itinerary Jamaica, Panama, Galapagos, the South Sea Islands, Australia, New Guinea, Bali, Java, Sumatra, Siam, India, Africa, Madagascar, South America, Cuba and many out of the way places.

Writing, painting, sketching, diving, still and movie photography, scientific research and collecting for the Field Museum of Chicago will consume the major portion of time spent in the many islands and countries.

Among the numerous items of equipment, the most important include diving suits and helmets, still and movie cameras, fishing tackles, hunting equipment, electric refrigeration, short wave transmitting and receiving radio with which the expedition will keep in touch with the civilized world and which will enable them to receive necessary weather reports on storms, and so forth.

Avoid Storm Seasons

These young explorers have spent many busy months in preparation for their journey in order that they can be in Florida during the hurricane season for practical experience on the Gulf. After sailing from there about the first of the year, they have planned their stops so that they will avoid the principal storm seasons throughout the world.

By talking with other explorers, naval officers and people who have spent considerable time in the tropics, they have obtained numerous bits of invaluable information about the diet, the kinds of food and clothing and the care of those two important items. Another seemingly unimportant bit of information they have learned is the methods of trading with the natives and the "international" tongue of the Polynesian archipelago, Pidgin-English.

Receive Broad Education

Besides learning navigation from a naval officer, scientific methods of skinning and preserving skins from the Field Museum scientists, developing and printing films from expert photographers, the crew is visiting clinics to learn to set bones, sew arteries, to administer antidotes and give general first aid.

The extensive library and files contain letters of introduction from many notable personages to remote traders, missionaries, foreign consuls and other famous persons who will see that these young modern Magellans will receive the best of accommodations while in the various distant ports.

Not content with the drab goings on of these youth-discouraging times, these five have the courage to brave the many hardships in order to open new worlds in their lives for the expression of their own personalities and to make names for themselves in their own right.

ON MOTOR TOUR

Miss Marion Campbell, of the Wilmette Chamber of Commerce staff, and her mother, Mrs. John Campbell of Kenilworth, are spending two weeks motoring through the Lake Huron region in Canada. Ronald Campbell, accompanied by a friend, left last week to drive to California. They plan to spend a month on the way, stopping at points of interest. Ronald will go into business on the coast and his friend will enter Stanford university for graduate work.

Mrs. C. L. Barton of London, England, who has been visiting her daughter and family, the Richard V. Muri-sons, 339 Kenilworth avenue, Kenilworth, is leaving today (Thursday) for Montreal, where she will visit friends before sailing for England, September 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Dilks, 227 Sheridan road, Kenilworth, left August 18 to spend three weeks in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Irene Nichols of Minneapolis arrived Monday to visit Helen Southward, 306 Oxford road, Kenilworth.