

"The Land of the Honeymoon" Beckons to Local Playgoers

Musical Romance to Be Presented at Masonic Temple
Friday and Saturday

The stage is set and everything is in readiness at the Masonic temple for the musical comedy, "The Land of the Honeymoon," which will be presented there Friday and Saturday nights of this week under the auspices of Bethel 44 of Job's Daughters. A carefully selected cast of principals and a chorus of forty girls and boys have been hard at work daily for the past two weeks in an effort to produce an entertainment above the average. Special scenery, costumes, and lighting effects will be one of the features of "Land of the Honeymoon," which is a Frederick B. Ingram production with Robert A. Burns in charge of direction.

Musical Romance

"The Land of the Honeymoon" is described as a musical romance in two acts with an interesting plot providing laughs, singing and dancing. It is a story of Jasper Budd, played by Clarke F. Mair, who inherits a factory from his uncle. Jasper is giving a garden party at his home when he receives the news that he is his uncle's heir. At the party is Mrs. Harvey Brown, who is very jealous of her husband and consequently makes his life miserable. The roles of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown are played by A. M. Long and Evangie Lee Morgan. Terry Tucker, an insurance salesman, taken by Arthur Katzel, arrives just before Miss Mathilda Doolittle and her niece Mary, uninvited guests, appear on the scene. Miss Doolittle is played by Julia Wild and Mary, one of the leading juvenile leads, is taken by Mildred Mullen. Jessie Robinson, as Misty the maid, supplies a comedy role. Miss Robinson has earned laurels for herself in many Wilmette productions. Egbert, a messenger boy in love with Misty, is played by Don Reynolds.

A great Chinese mind reader has been invited to appear at the party and her advice causes Jasper to take everybody east with him where he meets his uncle's ward, Shirley, played by Dorothy C. Shaw. Ann, a stenographer, played by Janet Lange, and Gardner, a gentleman of color, played by Lester Witt, one meets when the party arrives in Buddington, Pa. What happens there makes a very interesting and amusing story. Miss Janet, played by Esther Morgan, arrives, and with her offer makes every one happy.

Offer Special Features

One of the special features will be impersonations of several famous movie stars. J. B. Robinson, Jr., it is said, will be seen as Mae West. Other stars will be impersonated by well known local business men who are keeping their identities a secret. Between acts a specialty dance number by Esther Morgan and William Brann will be one of the high spots. The chorus in attractive musical comedy costumes, will dance their way through the show; the ensemble is made by the following: Suzanne Mitchell, Ann Binckley, Louise Eisenstadt, Janet Hall, Shirley Burnett, "Jo" Balhatchet, Vivian Kerr, Kathryn Kerr, Jean Campbell, Pauline Jones, Eugenia Holmdale, Ellen Holmdale, Vida Woley, Beatrice Larson, Betty Witt, Mary Mordoff, Marjorie Kresge, Mildred Farmer, Harriett Newton, Cecile Hills, Marion Cramer, Muriel Callow, Vivian Cramer, Virginia Green, Maxine Kelling, Norma Hendrichs, Helen Shane. Chinese boys are Harold Beckwith, Bud Galvin, Joe Mockler, Ray Warren, with Eugene Wallenius as soloist in the Chinese number.

Mrs. A. J. Kuelzow and Mrs. R. H. Hopkins comprise the committee in charge of the show and tickets may be secured from them, from members of the cast and chorus, or at the Snider-Cazel Drug company, Winberg Pharmacy, and Ridge Avenue pharmacy. There will be a special matinee for grammar school children Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Ross, the former Connie Hannah of Kenilworth, spent several days recently with her mother, Mrs. Alex Hannah of San Gabriel, Cal., who is staying at the Brevoort house in Chicago and visiting the fair. Mrs. Hannah's son, David, was an overnight guest this week of his uncle and aunt. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Newton, 306 Woodstock avenue, Kenilworth.

Hearing on Waterworks Suit Again Postponed

Proceedings in the case of the Shawnee Country club against the Village of Wilmette were brought to a halt this week owing to the fact that Master in Chancery Julius H. Miner was called to hear motions in the court of Judge Brothers, who has been transferred to the criminal court. How long Mr. Miner will be thus engaged is not known. The next hearing in the waterworks case is tentatively arranged for Tuesday afternoon of next week, though not definitely set. In the meantime construction work on the water plant is going forward without interruption.

Laurel School Branch Library Remains Closed

The branch library at the Laurel school which was closed during the summer months is not to be reopened to the public, Miss Anne L. Whitmack librarian at the Wilmette Public library, announced this week. However, the branch library will be open Tuesday afternoons from 2 to 5 o'clock for the use of children from the first to the fifth grades inclusive, Miss Whitmack said.

SKOKIE THROUGH STREET

At its regular meeting Tuesday evening the Village board passed an ordinance establishing Skokie highway as a through street within the village limits, and authorizing the erection of stop signs at all intersecting streets. A copy of the ordinance will be sent to the State Highway department with a request that the cost of the traffic signs be defrayed from state funds.
