

RICHARD FINNE AT SUNDAY CLUB

Stefansson, Richard Finnie was to live alone with the Copper Eskimos, but he was to do something Stefansson had not been able to do, bring back a motion picture of these dwellers of remote Coronation Gulf.

Before plunging into the Arctic for his winter alone, Mr. Finnie was sent as joint leader of the first aerial expedition to the region of the North Magnetic Pole. The chief purpose of this expedition was to search for relics and data pertaining to the Sir John Franklin expedition whose 105 members were swallowed up forever in the inscrutable Arctic fastnesses almost a century ago.

The objects of this preliminary work being accomplished, Mr. Finnie headed for the Coppermine River and Coronation Gulf. There, for thirteen months he lived with Eskimos, sharing their seal meat and blubber and sleeping with them in their igloos. He went with them on their hunts and joined with them in their dances to celebrate the bounty of their catch.

Of the 20,000 feet of motion pictures which Mr. Finnie made on this expedition he has prepared five reels for his lectures. These reels show graphically the thrilling flight over the North Magnetic Pole itself. They portray the life of the Copper Eskimos, of whom this is the only motion picture ever made, giving intimate glimpses of them trekking with their dog teams, building their snow houses, fishing, dancing. The pictures are full of human interest details about the Arctic and its people.

Lectures In Demand

Mr. Finnie made his debut as a lecturer in the Spring of 1933. He made an instantaneous hit at the few, although very important places where he spoke. These places were Canadian Geographical society, Chicago Geographic society, Field Museum, Chicago, National Museum of Canada, Ottawa, Chicago Academy of Sciences, Camp Fire club, Chicago.

3.2 Beverage Sales O. K. Kenilworth Prescribes

The sale, storage or manufacture of any liquor of more than 3.2 percent alcoholic content is prohibited in Kenilworth under the provisions of an ordinance passed by the Kenilworth Village board at its regular monthly meeting Monday night. This will permit the continued sale of 3.2 beer. Penalties for violation of the ordinance are fixed at a minimum of $50 and a maximum of $200. The ordinance was passed, it was explained, in view of the fact that the state legislature had not yet taken any action on liquor control or on the manner in which municipalities will be expected to handle the problem.

Evanston Residents Ask Board for Water Supply

The Village board has taken under consideration a request from residents of Evanston living on Glenview road to supply them with water. The section of Evanston where the petitioners reside has no water supply, and as Glenview road at that location divides the two municipalities it is thought advantageous for Wilmette to furnish the vicinity with water. It was decided to first take the matter up with Evanston authorities. Water connections with both Evanston and Kenilworth has been arranged for, so that one village may supply the other in case of emergency.

OPEN GARBAGE BIDS

Bids for the collection of garbage were opened by the Village Board Tuesday night, but no definite action was taken. This contract has heretofore been awarded to private contractors on an annual basis, but the board decided to advertise for bids for the proper motor equipment for handling the collections, with a view to eliminating the private contractor. Final decision, it is said, will be determined by the cost of the necessary equipment.

George Edward Walk, 1240 Lake avenue, is on a business trip to Washington, D. C., and New York.
