

Entries Pile In for Ping Pong Tourney

Entries for the North Shore Ping Pong tournament to be held in the grand ballroom of the Orrington hotel in Evanston on January 12 and 13, are piling in, it was reported this week. It is expected that there will be a record number of entries. Fifty have been received to date in spite of the fact that the blanks have been available for only a few days.

"We Want the Dubs!" This is the cry of the committee in charge of the tournament. It is the feeling of the committee that the good players are entering the tournament anyway, but it is the "dub" and the inexperienced player that the committee is especially interested in having entered.

The tournament is so arranged that every player will play at least two matches. This will be made possible through the holding of a consolation tournament. Each player losing his first match will go into the consolation tourney. Trophies are being offered for the consolation as well as for the regular event.

More than three hundred dollars worth of trophies will be awarded to the winners, the largest of these being 42 inches high, the committee announces. A total of twenty trophies are being offered.

Coleman Clark Entered

Although it was feared for a time that Coleman Clark would be unable to enter the tournament, he has definitely announced that he will be on hand.

The committee also made known the fact that Jessie Purvis, national women's singles champion, will play an exhibition match with Flossie Baler, who was runnerup to Miss Purvis for the national title last year.

In the doubles class it is certain that there will be plenty of real competition, members of the committee declare. The doubles team of Clark and Clark (Coleman and Robert) is said to be one of the strongest in the game. They have twice won the United States doubles championship and have twice beaten Tiny Lewis and Pearson, the present national doubles ping pong champions.

Entry blanks for the tournament are available at "The Co-op," 1726 Orrington avenue, which is sponsoring the event.

John Dunhill, 103 Robsart road, Kenilworth, has been spending his vacation with his grandfather in Columbus, Ohio.

Dorothy Perry, who is librarian at Rice Lake, Wis., spent her vacation visiting her parents, the Leslie L. Perrys of 1127 Greenwood avenue.

Plan Organization of Retail Councils Here

Bettin E. Stalling, 722 Washington avenue, chairman of the Wilmette Compliance board of the NRA, announces that he is in receipt of regulations from Washington covering the organization of Retail Food and Grocery councils. It is recommended that such councils be organized in each town and city. One of the provisions is that in any municipality where 75 percent of the retail food dealers are agreed, uniform store operating hours may be established. Mr. Stalling advises that, while the Compliance board will not assume the initiative in forming such a council, it will assist wherever possible with advice and information.

Bob King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl D. King of Wilmette is leaving this week-end for Hanover, N. H., to resume his senior studies at Dartmouth after passing the Christmas recess with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Thomas, 1136 Chestnut avenue, entertained six guests over the week-end.
