

BUILT ON MODERN LINES

An example of modern architecture as applied to conventional construction by General Houses, Inc., Howard T. Fisher, president, has appeared in the form of an eight-room residence for Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Logan, to be located west of Winnetka. It is the first house to be constructed by the newly established custom design division of the company.

Modern ideas predominate in this house, now nearly completed. One of the most interesting details is the arrangement of the upstairs living porch. This is reached by one flight of stairs from the living room below. The porch opens directly from the hall, thus eliminating the necessity of passing through a bedroom. Off the porch, is an open deck upon which the owner's bedroom opens through French doors.

The porch and deck are closely combined to permit convenient use of the flat roof, a characteristic of the modern house. The Edward A. Anderson company of Winnetka are builders. Albert Smith Bigelow and Philip Will, Jr., are associate architects.

General Houses Inc., recently announced the appointment of three new dealers who will handle its prefabricated steel panel houses.

Don't Pluck Wild Flowers, Nature's Gift

The near approach of wild flower time awakens renewed interest in the movement for the preservation of spring's beauties, which afford so much delight to true lovers of these blooms which are a direct gift of Mother Nature, without the guiding hand of man. Committees, garden clubs and individuals are busy planning campaigns to enlist the public in a widespread movement of conservation, to preserve the beauty of woods, forest preserves and roadsides and to increase this beauty that it may become a permanent part of the community and its life.

In the forefront of this movement is the Illinois chapter of the Wild Flower Preservation society. Mrs. Charles Barney Cory, Sr., its president, has this to say of the society and its purposes:

"This society was organized in 1913 by the late Dr. Charles Millspaugh, at that time curator of the botanical department at the Field Museum, Chicago. Dr. Millspaugh realized the necessity for the conservation of our native flowers, and today with motor travel increasing, there is even more urgent need to curb the ruthless picking of wild flowers.

"Is it through sheer ignorance that this wanton destruction goes on? If we are to enjoy the beauty of the woods and prairie, give the plants a chance to develop their seeds that they may increase and give added beauty for all to enjoy. Wild flowers when picked are soon wilted and thrown by the wayside, but if left undisturbed will give you, as well as others, pleasure for years to come. Already some of our rarest and choicest flowers have disappeared and will never be found again in places where once they grew abundantly. This because of indiscriminate picking.

"Illinois has plant life more varied and richly abundant than that of any other temperate region; why not learn to enjoy and not destroy that beauty?"

"This society is now affiliated with other conservation organizations of civic importance and co-operates in promoting and supporting all conservation measures connected with Illinois. Lectures and talks on various nature subjects are given by the society, and the beautifully colored lantern slides of wild flowers and trees loaned to schools and clubs are in constant use. In this way school children as well as adults become interested in the great need for conservation of the floral of Illinois."

PRESENT COMEDY

The young women of the Sacred Heart parish are sponsoring a one-act comedy followed by a dance on the evening of Thursday, April 26, in the parish hall on Tower road. The music for dancing will be furnished by the Walter Waidner orchestra. "Come and join the crowd and have a good dance before the hot weather sets in," the young women state in their invitation to the public to attend.

Brae Burn Golf Club Offers Many Facilities

The Brae Burn Golf and Country club was organized in February, 1934, and has taken over the property formerly occupied by Columbian Country club on Milwaukee avenue one mile north of Wheeling. The officers of the club are Dr. Robert E. Dyer, president; Leo E. Rapp, treasurer, and Thomas F. Fitzgerald, secretary. Ernie Young, well known theatrical producer, has been engaged to present his cabaret parties every Saturday night during the 1934 season commencing April 28. Brae Burn's property consists of an elaborate club house, 18-hole golf course, and an 80-foot outside swimming pool. The public is invited to make use of all these facilities.
