

Frank Garretson Is Monoxide Gas Victim in Garage

Frank Kendall Garretson, 21 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Garretson, 509 Linden avenue, died in the garage at his home sometime Friday night of monoxide gas poisoning.

The body was found by the youth's mother about 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Going to her son's room she discovered that his bed had not been occupied. She also found that the family automobile, which the son had been accustomed to putting away for the night, was still standing in the street. Going to the garage Mrs. Garretson found the body lying face down on the driver's seat of her son's car with the feet upon the floor of the garage. The garage doors were closed, the ignition of the car and the radio both on. The gas tank was empty.

Neighbors were called and the pulmotor squad from the fire department summoned, but life had been extinct for several hours.

Father Away on Business

The father, G. R. Garretson, was absent on a business trip to New York. A brother, Robert C. Garretson, who is associated with his father in the fruit business in Chicago, was notified.

The body was removed to Scott's funeral home, 1118 Greenleaf avenue, where a coroner's inquest was held Monday morning. The testimony revealed that the mother was the last of the family to see the victim alive. Miss Lilian Scott, 176 Fuller lane, Winnetka, testified that she had spent the evening with Mr. Garretson, leaving her home at about 7:30 p.m. and attending the performance at the Granada theater. She and Mr. Garretson arrived at her home at about 11:30, chatted for a moment and then her escort departed. They went directly from her home to the theater and back, making no stops, she testified.

The father and brother testified as to the condition of the victim's health, age and other details. He had just finished his sophomore year at Lake Forest academy, where Miss Scott is also a student. The verdict of the jury was accidental death from monoxide gas poisoning.
