Outdoor Chess Set Now Being Painted

Last week the Junior Chess and Garden club began painting the large outdoor angel chess set which is being designed and cut out of wood panels by the public school children. The club also finished most of the transplanting of the flower seedlings from the nursery at the water works.

Hereafter, it is announced, the members of the garden department of the Chess and Garden club who have registered at the water works will assist the head gardener, H. L. Beach, as individuals, subject to his call, rather than as a group.

The painting of the names of the evergreens, shrubs and flowers on metal signs to designate such trees and shrubbery on the water works property, and the painting of the chessmen, will be continued at Vattman park, under the auspices of the handcraft department of the Recreation board, with "Hap" Gathercoal as instructor, at 3 p. m. every Friday afternoon.

Louis Paul d'Autremont of Duluth, Minn., the inventor of the new game of angel chess, who demonstrated and exhibited for the first time at the chess exhibit at A Century of Progress last year, is expected to be present at the club meeting at Vattman park Friday afternoon of this week. He will give a free demonstration to any who did not see the game as played at the fair. He also desires to take photographs of the outdoor chessmen the children are designing.

The meetings of the Chess and Garden club are free to anyone who wishes to help in the work or to secure the advantages of free practical lessons in designing, painting and gardening.
