

Erect Memorial to Noted Woman Leader

The many friends in Chicago and on the north shore who knew and heard Keith Ransom Keihler, world traveler, lecturer and educator, who died in 1933 of small-pox contracted while traveling from city to city in Persia in the interests of world peace and the brotherhood of man, will be interested to hear of a memorial which is being erected to her memory in Isfahan, Persia, by the Baha'is of the United States and Canada. This memorial was designed by Myron Potter of Cleveland, and will be carried out in delicately colored, native Persian stone. The horizontal tablet bears an inscription in Persian and English commemorating Mrs. Keihler's services to the Baha'i faith and world peace.

Keith Ransom-Keihler was the wife of the late James Howard Keihler, Chicago journalist and head of a large Chicago advertising agency. Mr. and Mrs. Keihler spent summers at their beautiful home near Deerfield. The last few years of her life was spent in intensive teaching in many countries and she was in India doing successful work when called to undertake a delicate and important mission to the Shah of Persia. Though her specific purpose was apparently not accomplished, through the failure of the government to keep its promises, she accomplished a great work and has been acclaimed as the first American martyr to the Baha'i faith.

OPEN ON HOLIDAY

Despite the Memorial Day holiday, Field Museum will remain open to visitors all day Thursday, May 30, during the usual hours from 9 to 6 o'clock. Admission will be free to all. Many people make an annual practice of visiting the museum on this holiday, and an unusually large attendance is anticipated. Several new exhibits of importance have been opened in the department of zoology in the last few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Moorehead have come from Chicago to make their home at 825 Oakwood avenue. They have four children, Mary Louise, Ellen, Bobby, and Tommy. Mrs. Moorehead is the sister of Mrs. Theodore Adams of 816 Fourth street.
