Officials to Open Evanston Garden Market Saturday

This year, for the first time, the Garden market sponsored by the Evanston Garden club will be off to a flying start with an official opening.

At 10, prominent Evanstonians, officials representing a number of civic, educational and cultural organizations, will arrive as a signal for the opening. The president of the Garden club will introduce the honorary president, who in turn will introduce the Mayor of Evanston, who will make a few remarks in celebration of the Garden market in Raymond Park.

Numbered among other official guests are Pres. Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern; Francis L. Bacon, principal of the high school; Miss Ida Faye Wright, of the Evanston Library, Robert M. Brown, superintendent of streets; Philip A. Danielson of the Evanston Associates, a group doing civic planting; Thomas F. Airth, chairman of the parks committee of the City council, and Chief William O. Freeman of the Evanston Police department.

Buglers from the high school will call to attention visitors in the park, which will be gay with flags and pennants flying and the bright hues of balloons bobbing constantly in the hands of vendors.

Each side of a diagonal walk across the park will be edged with the displays of plant growers. Scattered about the ground will be other booths, with tools, fertilizers, garden furniture and accessories.

In a special booth smaller garden supplies, novelties, porch accessories, and ornaments for gardens will be grouped.

Another feature is to be a question box in which Evanston Garden club members will be stationed to give advice, answer questions, and proffer garden magazines, to help the purchaser solve his problems.

A cafeteria luncheon with fried chicken, hot buttered muffins, tomato and cream cheese salad, pie, ice cream, doughnuts, and coffee included on the menu, will be ready at 11, being served as long as the food holds out.

From 8 in the morning on through the day "hot dogs" stands, ice cream wagons, and stands with iced beverages for children and soft drinks will be available to customers.

Entertainment is to have its share. During luncheon the high school band will play for an hour, starting at 12:30 o'clock. Later in the afternoon a teacher of dancing in the Evanston public school and the north shore Country Day School will present some of his pupils in a program of dance.

The Garden market, with its carnival spirit, is sponsored entirely as a civic project.

Get-together for Women Golfers Next Tuesday

The women's golf committee of the North Shore Golf club has planned a series of interesting events for the coming summer. The first get-together day will be on Tuesday, May 28, with a nine-hole event followed by luncheon and a meeting to discuss the plans for the season.

A special day dedicated to the new members is scheduled for an early event in June. The juniors have not been overlooked and plans for a special trophy for the season and for Tuesday afternoon events are arousing great enthusiasm among them.

Daylight saving time makes the twilight mixed foursome each Thursday afternoon very popular. Once a month the members have a guest day for this event and altogether it makes the Thursday night family dinner parties quite successful.
