

TEMPTING BAIT IS SET TO GET EARLY GOLFER

Repeal of Prohibition Law Held Cause of Later Start on Sunday Mornings

The officials and directors of the Evanston Community Recreation association, which maintains the golf course along the right-of-way of the Drainage Canal in Evanston and Wilmette, have been pondering over the profound subject as to why people do not play golf so early in the morning on Sundays as they were wont to do in days gone by.

Managing Director William L. McGoodwin, at a meeting of the board of directors, called attention to the fact that a few years ago people gathered at the starter's house as early at 5:30 a. m. waiting for daylight so that they could begin playing. He told the directors that now very few assemble before 8 o'clock. Mr. McGoodwin believes that this is the case with almost all golf courses. At the meeting, therefore, there was considerable discussion as to what was the cause.

Times Have Changed

Treasurer James F. Leahy of the Community association claimed that times and customs have changed. He believes that with prohibition repealed there are more cocktail parties on Saturday nights, more people going to night clubs, and therefore as a general rule golf players are accustomed to sleep longer Sunday mornings instead of getting out on the golf links.

Some of the directors, notably George S. Dalgety of Evanston, G. F. Johnston of Wilmette and George L. Dautel of Chicago expressed the belief that Treasurer Leahy's diagnosis of the case was correct.

Try an Experiment

Therefore the directors concluded to experiment and appeal to the pocketbooks of sleepy players. Accordingly, they decided to establish a green fee of 50 cents on Sunday mornings, provided players start before 7 o'clock and an additional fee of 25 cents is charged for a subsequent round.
