Wilmette's WPA Projects Will Be Told Over Radio

The effects of WPA projects on the community life of Wilmette will be discussed on next Saturday's "Better Illinois Communities" radio series over station WCFL, according to an announcement from the state Works Progress Administration. Headlining the radio discussion, which will be heard from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m., will be Dr. Martin H. Bickham, Administrative Assistant of the Illinois WPA and prominent Wilmette citizen, and Harry C. Kinne, president of the village.

Wilmette is the first north shore suburb to be covered in the popular broadcast series which is now in its eighth consecutive week over the "Voice of Labor" station. With the radio discussion conducted exclusively by local citizens it is a foregone conclusion that most Wilmette residents having access to the ether waves will be tuning in Saturday noon.

The broadcast will take the form of the increasingly popular "question and answer" or "round table" discussion, according to President Kinne, with frank comments from both participants concerning the results of the program generally, as well as detailed references to individual projects now in operation, their aims and purposes.

ABANDON SHIP

Sailors must always be prepared to meet the sudden emergencies thrust upon them by the sea. If their vessel is found to be sinking their last means of saving themselves is to take to the life preservers and abandon ship. Inasmuch as sinking ships await no man's pleasure it is absolutely necessary for this to be done with the utmost of dispatch. In order to prevent panicky confusion each man aboard ship is assigned a definite position to which he is to report when an alarm is sounded. At this position he will find a life belt to use if the ship is to be abandoned.

To provide for the safety of all on board, this maneuver must be carried out quickly and smoothly. Teamwork must be developed by means of drills during which movements become automatic.

One of the requirements of advancement in sea scouting is to know and be able to explain the abandon ship technique. Periodic drills are held by Skipper Huggins aboard the sea scout cruiser in the course of the weekly cruise meetings. Each scout is assigned to a position and a life belt and is expected to be able to properly tie his life belt even in pitch darkness. This drill is carefully supervised by the officers and the time taken noted.

On July 13 an abandon ship drill was held as described above. Later the same evening John Neville, one of the senior sea scouts, jumped overboard for a realistic man-over-board drill. Edgar Goetz, also in the senior division, heaved him a life preserver and later dove in to "the rescue." In this drill each scout must go to his assigned position to await orders just as in the abandon ship drill.

The foregoing is a good example of what goes on during the Monday evening cruises. The scouts have all read and been told about these two ship board activities but will appreciate their importance more now that they have experienced some of the attendant difficulties.

Busy With Plans for Wilmette's Summer Festival

Each day finds some new attraction added to the program to be given on the Village Green when August 13, the date of revived Wilmette Day, arrives. This event, sponsored by the Wilmette Chamber of Commerce, is being planned to outdo all similar entertainments given by the Chamber in days before the depression. A. C. Wolff, president, and C. E. Clifton, Jr., secretary, are determined that this community celebration shall be such as will afford pleasure without stint to old and young alike.

Responsibility for the arrangements has been assumed by A. C. Pearson, Jr., and Al Jensen, a sufficient guarantee that nothing will be left undone to insure the success of the event. In the light of wide experience they have sought to arrange a well balanced program that will afford a day of real enjoyment to adults and juveniles alike. Thus games and contests of various kinds will occupy the youngsters, while more quiet pastimes are provided for their adults. There will be exciting and thrilling rides galore, with many concessions, conducted by local merchants, to occupy the attention of those seeking entertainment with a kick. Just visiting with the home-folks, or former residents who have removed to otherwheres and have returned for this day of reunion, will not be the least of the day's pleasures.
